SOVIET-U. S. ATOMIC DUEL FLARES ANEW

Gromyko Revives Red Scheme To Outlaw Bomb Without Control Measures.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(UP) — Andrei Gromyko of Russia revived the widely-opposed Societ plan for an international atomic treaty today and touched off a new duel with the United States in the United Nations security council.

Gromyko served notice that when the council convened this afternoon he again would submit the Russian proposal. It calls for a world pact to outlaw atomic bombs and require countries owning the weapon—presumably only the United States—to scrap them within 90 days of the treaty's effective date.

It would not contain provisions for the international control and other safeguards demanded by the United States.

Bernard M. Baruch and his advisers turned thumbs down on the Soviet plan the day it first was submitted to the atomic energy commission June 19. The commission, with Russia and Poland abstaining from voting shunted the Russian plan aside on Dec. 31 when it endorsed in its entirety the much more detailed American plan for world atomic control machinery.

U. S. Plan Studied.

The matter before the security council today was the atomic commission's report, with its all-out endorsement of the Baruch plan. It not only would outlaw atomic weapons, but would lay down an elaborate program for international inspection to detect any violations of atomic regulations, set up a world authority to harness the atom for peaceful uses, and provided a system of punishing violators. Punishment would not be subject to the Big Five veto.

The council edged into the controversial atomic field in a short but productive meeting yesterday. First it gave final approval to a blueprint for parallel negotiations on atomic problems and conventional disarmament, then moved on to consideration of the atomic commission's report.

Canada, the only country on the atomic energy commission which is not a member of the council, was invited to sit in while the report is under discussion.

HANGARS SELL FOR $55,000

A letter to Harrington Manufacturing company creditors today revealed the sale of two disputed hangars at the old airport site. The hangars, No. 3 and No. 7, are now being used by the Harrington Manufacturing company and the Harrington air service.

Reputed sale price was $55,000.

From outside sources the News-Journal learned that part of the sales agreement was that James R. (Bud) Harrington turn over to the purchasers all of his stock in Harrington Air service, that he agree to refrain from operations at the airport for five years, and that the present lawsuit for possession of the hangars be withdrawn.

The suit was filed several months ago by Arthur Cornell, of Shelby, Harrington's brother-in-law.

The letter to creditors said the purchase was made by a "syndicate of local business men." Atty. C. H. Henkel, who reportedly handled the deal, declined to comment. Other sources indicated that the payment was made to Cornell.

The letter to creditors asserted that the company has been operating in "buildings leased from the Harrington Air Service" which in turn had "leased them from others." The letter added that the buildings have been purchased by a "syndicate of local business men" and that they will be made available at reasonable rates to the Harrington Manufacturing company and Harrington Air service.

The letter was signed by James H. Hoffman, secretary of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, who is chairman of the creditors committee organized last fall to direct operations of the Harrington Manufacturing company.

Meanwhile, Harrington told The News-Journal that he will continue to serve as president of the Great Lakes Airlines, Inc., and that his company expects action within 60 or 90 days on an application before the Civil Aeronautics board, to operate feeder airlines in the middle west. Harrington said he did not know where headquarters of the company would be established but expected that it would be "somewhere in Ohio."

News Blackout Veils Session On Budget Cut

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The senate-house budgetary committee voted 40 to 27 today to exclude the press and public from its sessions at which a proposed $6,000,000,000 cut in President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget estimates is being considered.

Senate Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) had moved to open the door to the press and public, saying the people should know "what is going on."

Rep. Dirksen (R., Ill.) leading the drive to slash the president's budget, was reported to have offered the motion to table Barkley's proposal.

A 20-man subcommittee of the 102-member budgetary committee then formally presented its resolution, proposing that the full committee ratify its recommendations for the $6,000,000,000 cut, approved Monday.

Those supporting the large cut disputed statements by army and navy spokesmen that this budget slash would take funds away from the fighting forces and jeopardize the security of the nation.

Bloc Fights Slash.

A Republican-Democratic bloc fighting the large budget slash was ready to present a substitute proposal to restrict the reduction to $4,500,000,000 or less.

President Truman said yesterday that his $37,500,000,000 estimate is essential for proper operation of the government. The budget is for the 1948 fiscal year, beginning July 1.

Lists Recommendations.

The subcommittee in its resolution calling for the $6,000,000,000 cut said it arrived at this figure on the following considerations:

"1. The elimination of those functions by the federal government which might be regarded as desirable but not imperative in the light of a huge estimate of expenditures for the fiscal year 1948 and in the light of the towering public debt.

"2. A return wherever possible to prewar levels of appropriations.

"3. The reduction of the number of civilian employes by not less than 500,000 below budget estimate in the next fiscal year. (There are now approximately 2,300,000 federal civilian workers).

"4. The deferment, other than planning, of public works projects wherever this might be accomplished without substantial determination so that the benefits of such projects might be utilized in any subsequent period of unemployment.

"5. The deferment, other than planning, of newly authorized public works projects and their retention on the shelf for utilization in a period of unemployment unless such projects were esteemed vitally necessary.

"6. The rescinding of appropriations made in prior years in a larger amount than that proposed by the president."

1,000 Expected to See Ohio Farm Show Today

The Ohio Farm and Home Labor Saving show opened for a one-day stand in Mansfield at 10 a. m. today.

An hour after the show opened, 300 persons had seen the exhibits in Young's Implement store at 435 Springmill street.

One thousand persons were expected to see the show before it closed at 4 p. m. today. The exhibit was free to the public.

Richland county farmers and their wives were enthusiastic about the numerous time and labor saving ideas on display, County Agent George B. Ganyard said. A number of persons said they had obtained several ideas to put into use at their farms.

A bag holder, exhibited by Richard Wolford, Madison township; a homemade portable compressor, and a paint mixer exhibited by Oliver Gramley and sons of Weller township were being displayed along with the traveling show.

The show which has been touring Ohio since Jan. 3, is sponsored jointly by the College of Agriculture at Ohio State university and the county extension service.

From Mansfield the show will move to Mt. Vernon where it will open to Knox county farmers Monday.

City Seeks Lifting of Vet Housing Order

City officials were in Cleveland today attempting to learn how soon—if at all—a construction suspension will be lifted on 24 veterans' housing units in Mansfield.

The units, to be located on Grace street, are part of a 50-apartment project sponsored by the federal government. Already under way are 26 units at a Diamond-Hedges streets' site.

In January, the government ordered that no work be started on the 24 apartments proposed for Grace street until a recapitulation of federal funds could be made.

Federal housing officials have announced that if the government, because of mounting material and labor prices, can't erect the 24 units, the local housing authority would be offered the opportunity to finance their construction. Certain surplus materials would be provided by the government.

Edward F. Friday, secretary of the Mansfield Housing authority, said that he and Mayor Roy W. Vaughn will meet with federal officials today to determine the status of the suspension order.

Meanwhile, Friday said that major carpentry work has been completed on 12 of the 26 Diamond-Hedges apartments.

Depending upon speed of plumbing and painting contractors, first units there may be occupied in a month, Friday said.

COURT UPHOLDS SUGAR DECISION

Action Might Topple Entire OPA Rationing System, Officials Say.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The U. S. court of appeals today upheld a district court decision which OPA officials say may upset the entire sugar rationing program.

The appeals court's 2 to 1 decision was given on OPA's appeal from a ruling Jan. 28 by District Judge F. Dickinson Letts. In that, Letts held invalid the agency's "historical use" system of allocating sugar to producers of bulk sweetened condensed milk.

Letts' ruling was issued in a suit brought by the Moberly Milk company, of Moberly, Mo., which contended that the OPA allocation formula — based on the amount of sugar used by a company in previous year—is illegal under the War Mobilization and Reconversion Act of 1944.

Attorneys for the milk company argued this act prohibited "discrimination" against small businesses in the allocating of materials for peacetime use. They asserted that after the formula was put into effect last Nov. 1 for condensed milk producers, the Moberly company had been unable to obtain sufficient sugar to meet its needs.

LANE TO QUIT POLAND SOON

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The United States backed up its displeasure at the Polish elections today with the recall of Ambassador Arthur Bliss Lane from his post in Warsaw.

Diplomatic quarters said the action foreshadowed a period of "cool and reserved" relations with the Soviet-influenced Polish government. But they doubted the U. S. would deprive itself of a valuable European listening post by severing all diplomatic relations.

A statement by the U. S. embassy in Warsaw said Lane would leave Feb. 24 to report to Secretary of State George C. Marshall but that the ambassador "definitely" will not return to Poland."

The statement indicated that appointment of a new ambassador might be delayed until the United States determines the future course of its policy toward Poland.

Lane's recall was no surprise here. Marshall said a week ago that he would be returning soon for consultations on the Jan. 19 elections in Poland.

The United States has charged repeatedly that the elections were rigged in favor of the government-backed communist bloc parties, in violation of the Yalta and Potsdam agreement for free elections.

CRASH KILLS PILOT

DENVER—(INS)—Joseph Hearn, of Burbank, Calif., chief pilot for the western division of Slick Airways, Inc., was killed early today when a Slick Airways cargo plane crashed northeast of Denver. The only other occupant of the plane, William Shively Day, 29, of Los Angeles, was seriously injured.

Plane Lands On Lake Of Polar 'Shangri-La'

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(Representing Combined American Press)

ABOARD MOUNT OLYMPUS IN ANTARCTIC (Feb. 13)—(INS)—Discovery of a land of lakes in inland Antarctica opens the wide possibility that other and larger such areas may exist elsewhere on the South Polar continent, Dr. Arthur Howard of the United States Geological Survey said today.

The geologist said the lake region—found this week in the Knox coast vicinity and dubbed "Shangri-la"—might owe its existence to an underlying mass of hot rock. He said the region might be somewhat like Yellowstone park, where heat for geysers and hot springs is believed to come from such a rock mass.

* * *

Crew Finds Warm Water.

Official dispatches of the U. S. Navy's Antarctic expedition said that a Mariner sea plane from the western task group landed Thursday local time—Wednesday Eastern Standard Time—on one of the new found lakes and the crew took a sample of the water reported "definitely warmer" than elsewhere.

The crewmen, under Lt. Cmdr. David E. Bunger of Coronado, Cal., noted what seemed ore-bearing rocks on the ground and a few birds overhead. Ice rimmed the region, but none was seen on the lake. Neither, however, was any steam.

Howard said it was not especially significant that the Mariner crew saw no steam, because hot springs or fumaroles — steaming holes in the ground—might not be visible at that particular point or from high in the air. The lakes also might freeze over during the winter like the Yellowstone lakes or remain open the year around if the heat supply was sufficient.

* * *

Still In Ice Age.

Howard said that the South Polar continent still was caught in the last phases of an ice age and that inspection of earth mounds reported in the ice-free area would show quickly whether the area once had been covered by ice or had remained uncovered during the ice age.

"The most interesting thing about the presence of this Shangri-la in the ice cap—small as it is—is that it opens up the possibility that there are other and possibly larger ice-free areas on the vast continent," he declared.

CHAMBER TO JOIN BOXCAR HEARING

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, said today that Mansfield "quite likely" would send representatives to Washington to appear before the Senate Interstate Commerce committee investigating the boxcar shortage.

A telegram from the Ohio Chamber of Commerce received by Routzon said:

"Just advised Ohio shippers to be heard by Senate Interstate Commerce committee regarding boxcar shortage 10 a. m. Feb. 18 If you have representative who should appear advise immediately John Eckler, administrative assistant, Senator John Bricker, Senate Office building, Washington."

In recent weeks a shortage of boxcars has put the squeeze on Mansfield industry. And trucking companies have been unable to provide facilities to meet the increased demands of shippers here.

FIELDS FACES JAIL SENTENCE

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Benjamin F. Fields, Washington public relations man, today was sentenced by Federal District Judge Alexander Holtzoff to 90 days in jail and fined $250 for contempt of a house committee.

Defense attorneys announced they will appeal to the U. S. court of appeals and Fields was released on $500 bond.

Fields was convicted February 5 by a district court jury of failing to give the house surplus property committee last year all his financial records in connection with the sale of surplus bronze screen wire to C. B. Warr, an Oklahoma City builder.

The government contended Fields failed to submit documents in response to a committee subpoena, showing division of a $4,500 commission received for sale of the screen. The government said Fields made 59 per cent profit on the transaction.

Fields had given the house committee last August a memorandum showing one third of the commission was to be paid to Glenn A. Dies, an associate; one third to "Joe Doe" and $400 to another "John Doe" with the remainder to himself.

In 1931 Fields was sentenced to 15 years by a federal court in Oklahoma for using the mails to defraud in the sale of oil stocks. He was paroled in 1938 and the sentence commuted in 1940.

HINTS PHONE STRIKE

CLEVELAND —(UP)— President Robert Pollock of the Ohio Federation of Telephone Workers (Ind.) today said there was some possibility that a work stoppage by 700 telephone company employes in the Youngstown area might develop into a state-wide telephone strike.

Reporters Want To Be Prophets, Complains Taft

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Sen. Robert A. Taft (R.-Ohio) told the Ohio Newspaper association last night that he is slowly getting accustomed to Washington newsmen.

Taft complained that the reporters in the capital city were too concerned with the commentator style of predicting what will happen rather than reporting what had happened.

"They want to know what I think now, what I will think in 30 days and what 51 other senators think," he said.

BRITISH FUEL CRISIS FADING

Solving of Transportation Problems Speeds Up Coal Shipments.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman made public today a message from Prime Minister Attlee declining an American offer of aid in the British coal crisis.

LONDON—(UP)—Britain passed the crisis point in her fuel battle today and appeared able to pull through without the help of American coal offered by President Truman.

Slowly rising temperatures and a gradual speedup in the flow of coal to the electric power plants helped the shivering country's fight to maintain essential services and rebuild stockpiles.

Probably 500,000 tons of coal were on the move by ship, train and truck. Railways snowbound for days were reopened. Thirty thousand coal cars stalled in Yorkshire were expected to begin moving 300,000 tons of coal southward from that area today.

Observers saw four main reasons why the government probably would decline Mr. Truman's offer with thanks:

(1) The drastic fuel saving plan was working. A total of 78,200 tons of coal has been saved in the power plants during the last three days.

(2) Coal shipped from the United States could not arrive until the greatest need was finished.

(3) The most urgent problem was not production of coal, but a transportation tieup caused by extreme winter weather which had virtually halted shipments from the mines to the power plants.

(4) American coal presumably would cost dollars, of which Britain is seriously short.

Board Again Says 'No' to Blind Girl

LOS ANGELES—(UP) —Blind Patsy Ruth Fergus' hopes of taking her seeing eye dog to school with her rested today with the state legislature.

For the second time in 10 days the city board of education ruled that 16-year-old Patsy and her guide dog Lucky would have to stay home from high school.

It said it didn't want to turn its classrooms into kennels.

"If this girl gets her dog," board member Roy J. Becker said, "every child will bring his pet to school."

Patsy, led into the board room by Lucky to hear the ruling against them, was obviously hurt. She had counted on the gentle, all-white dog leading her through a nearly normal school life.

"I know you have to make rules that cover everybody, but I thought you might not know how much Lucky means to me," she told the board through tears.

The school board will be over ruled if a bill now before the current session of the state legislature passes and makes it illegal to bar a guide dog from a public place.

FALLING TREE, FLAMES, AUTO CAUSE DEATHS

Jeromesville Widow Fatally Burned; Killbuck Man Felled By Limb.

Accidents today and yesterday claimed the lives of three Mansfield area residents.

A 79-year-old Jeromesville widow died of burns received when her clothes caught fire. A Killbuck milk truck driver succumbed to injuries suffered when a tree limb fell on him. A Shreve resident was killed in an automobile accident.

Dead were

Mrs. Mary Harpster, 79, of Jeromesville.

Leland Shrimplin, 34, of Killbuck.

Ira Wharton, 76, of Shreve.

Mrs. Harpster died in Ashland Samaritan hospital yesterday afternoon shortly after her clothes caught fire while she was burning paper in the back yard of her Jeromesville home. She was rushed to Samaritan hospital, but died a few minutes after arrival.

Cutting Down Tree.

Mr. Shrimplin died early today in Millersburg Pomerene Memorial hospital. He was injured fatally when a large tree limb collapsed and struck him on the head.

He and his father, Eberett Shrimplin, were cutting down a tree at the latter's farm near Killbuck when the accident occurred. His father was not injured.

Mr. Wharton was killed yesterday when the car in which he was riding collided with an automobile driven by Nicholas E. Sisler, 50, of Cleveland.

The crash occurred at the junction of State Rt. 61 and 229, twelve miles south of Mt. Gilead. His death marked the first traffic fatality in Morrow county since last June 22.

Death Blamed On Shock.

Wharton died a few minutes after the accident. His death was attributed to shock, the state highway patrol reported.

The car in which Wharton was riding was driven by his son, Forest, 49. He suffered bruises and abrasions. Sisler received a leg fracture. Both were taken to Mercy hospital, Mt. Vernon.

Wharton's body was taken to Jacobs funeral home in Marengo. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Sister In Mansfield.

Mrs. Harpster was the widow of James Harpster and lived for many years in Millersburg. She is survived by three half-sisters, Mrs. Lola Steele of Mansfield, Mrs. Myrtle Ebert and Mrs. Ethel Winbigler, both of Jeromesville, and two step-sons, Bert Harpster of Ashland and Roy Harpster of Thornville.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Saturday at the Jeromesville Church of Christ. Rev. Arthur Poll of Millersburg will officiate. Another service will be held at 3 p. m. in the Church of Christ in Millersburg. Burial will be in Millersburg cemetery.

Mr. Shrimplin was a member of the Killbuck Church of Christ, and the Spartan lodge No. 126, F. and A. M. He is survived by his widow, Nola; two daughters, Joycelin and Dianne, at home; his father and a stepfather.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the Church of Christ. Rev. J. Hubert Smith will officiate. Burial will be in Killbuck cemetery. Friends may call at the Wade Jones residence in Killbuck after noon Saturday.

WEATHERMAN'S IN GOOD MOOD

The weatherman was in a good mood today. Temperatures, he said, will average above normal over the weekend and possibly through the early part of next week.

Today's noon temperature of 46 accompanied by sunny skies, helped to thaw out frost-bitten Mansfielders who, a week ago, were shoveling deep snow drifts from their doors and stoking the furnace as the mercury slid to zero.

There might be a little drop in the mercury Saturday and even a "skift" of snow, but Sunday is expected to bring warmer weather. Up until Thursday, the thermometers will average about four degrees above normal in the northern portion and five or six degrees above normal in the southern portion of the state, the extended forecast said.

Warmest spot in the state yesterday was Chesapeake, where the mercury climbed to 52 degrees. Cincinnati was next with a high of 49. Columbus marked up a high of 46. Cleveland a high of 44 and Mansfield a high of 43 degrees. Mansfield's low was 30.

GOP Senators Split on Confirmation of Lilienthal

SURVEY SHOWS CLOSE VOTE ON ATOMIC CHIEF

Appointment Dispute Might Bring Showdown Between Taft, Vandenberg.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— An International News Service survey today showed the senate Republican majority split wide open on the issue of confirming David E. Lilienthal as the nation's atomic chief.

The survey indicated that Lilienthal's chances were in a dangerous spot.

As of today, he had a tentative margin of at least five votes, and possibly a dozen or so.

Opposition Growing.

However, his margin still had to withstand the impact of mounting and determined opposition by a portion of the party's high command.

A colleague of Sen. Taft (R.-Ohio) said he was "positive" that the powerful GOP policy committee chairman will throw his weight against Lilienthal in a public statement today or tomorrow.

Such a move by Taft might bring a showdown between him and Sen. Vandenberg (R.-Mich.), senate president, on which swings the greatest power among the Republican majority.

Both foes and friends of Lilienthal have been counting Vandenberg as a supporter of the appointment. Vandenberg, an atomic committee member, has been silent.

The INS survey, from interviews and preliminary polls by leaders in the fight, showed rank-and-file senate Republican sentiment evenly divided as Majority Leader White (R.-Maine), issued his statement denouncing Lilienthal as "defiant of congress."

White Enters Fight.

The checkup showed that when White entered the fight, 19 Republicans were tentatively expecting to vote for Lilienthal's confirmation, 21 were opposed, and 11 were undecided or unreached.

President Truman also entered the fight for nomination by giving his unqualified support to Lilienthal.

PLAN PROPOSES ARMS COMBINE

WASHINGTON —(UP)— President Truman will send congress legislation early next week to carry out his compromise plan for unification of the armed forces, informed quarters said today.

The legislation was worked out by Maj. Gen. Lauris Norstad, war department director of plans and operations, and Vice Adm. Forrest Sherman, deputy chief of naval operations.

A spirited fight was in prospect in the senate over which committee would handle the bill. Both the armed forces committee and the committee on executive expenditures claim jurisdiction.

The legislation will include provisions for:

1. A separate air force, on an equal footing with the army and navy.
2. A new "secretary of national defense" in the cabinet, replacing the secretaries of war and navy.
3. Separate departments of army, navy and air forces, each headed by a secretary of non-cabinet rank. All would be under the secretary of national defense.
4. The navy to keep its Marine corps and its own aviation but to coordinate air operations with the separate air force.
5. Joint chiefs of staff made up of the military chief of each of the three services.
6. A full-time joint army-navy-air force staff of not more than 100 officers.
7. A council of national defense, a security resources abroad and a central intelligence agency.

TAFT, BRICKER MUM ON POLITICAL PLANS

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Ohio's two Republican senators and possible 1948 presidential nominees met yesterday at a luncheon but reportedly decided to remain silent on the issue of who will be the state's favorite son.

Sen. John W. Bricker planned the luncheon for his senator colleague, Robert A. Taft, congressional spokesman on domestic affairs, and 20 other party leaders.

The former governor said he did not plan to issue a statement during his present trip to Ohio and that the luncheon would have no bearing on the presidential nomination.

Break In Natural Gas Line Repaired

PITTSBURGH—(UP)—A leak in a major natural gas conveyor line that interrupted the flow of fuel this week to about 200 industries in Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, was repaired today but production in the affected area was not expected to be back to normal until tomorrow.

The break occurred at Cooper's Creek crossing, near Charleston, W. Va., and was due to an earth movement caused by the thawing of frozen ground. The line is operated by the Tennessee Gas and Transmission company.

Comic Valentines Show Up In City's Mailboxes Again

By NITA BRANSON

The humorous Valentine, in which the gal says bluntly, "Hi yah, kid, how about marryin' me?" is coming into its own again.

Sidetracked during war years, when distance and anxiety shoved the comic side of life into the background, America is finding its funny bone again. During the year when battles were fought and men were dying in them, many an "I love you" went winging its way by air mail to some distant outpost in the shape of a lacy, satin trimmed Valentine.

But now the war is over! Americans, back to normal living, are buying the realistic card, with humorous drawing and the fresh, slangy verse, that tells the same story, but in a little different way.

* * *

THE SENTIMENTAL, red satin Valentine is still popular. It will never lose its value as Cupid's message for father, mother, husband, wife, or sweetheart. But if you're not in that category and want to "kid" the girl or boy acquaintance a little, then you will have no trouble finding just the right card among the many hundreds on display in Mansfield stores.

For instance, there's the impudent statement from the young lady who signs herself, "From a poor working girl who'd rather run a man than a typewriter."

Or the chap who stares you in the eye to say,

"I ain't no fancy glamor guy,
I ain't no gay deceiver,
But once the gals run around with me
Why, they start to run a fever."

Prices of today's Valentines run from five cents to $1. And it's surprising how many of the expensive ones are bought. They're pretty things, with lace and roses or lace and violets, all satin-covered like books.

* * *

IN SPITE OF MODERN romancing, there's still a good bit of sentiment in verses on the fancy Valentines. One says, for instance,

"Sweetheart is a sweet word,
The dearest ever known;
A word, which in my heart I use,
For you and you alone'."

Even the modern lass who is currently trilling "Open the door, Richard," probably would be impressed by that sincere sentiment.

Whatever your needs, you'll not have to look long to find just the right one for the person you have in mind. Valentine makers are modern-minded Americans themselves; they know that while "love and kisses" and that sort of thing will always be favorites with many, there are others who want their Valentines to be pert and right to the point without any frills.

B and O Plans $1,500,000 Expansion at Willard

YARD TERMINAL MODERNIZATION STARTS MARCH 1

Engineer Says Work Will Take Nearly Two Years.

By MRS. HARRISON WOLFE
(N-J State Correspondent)

WILLARD — A $1,500,000 expansion program in the Willard yards will get underway about March 1, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad announced here today.

H. P. Craig, of Pittsburgh, B and O construction engineer, said the terminal here will be practically rebuilt. The construction work will take approximately two years.

During the last two weeks, $200,000 worth of materials have arrived here. Included are poles for new electric power lines, electric switches, track and other heavy equipment.

Yards Enlarged.

Craig said the railroad plans to lengthen the hump classification yard to handle longer freight trains which the B and O soon will put into operation.

The eastbound hump will be relocated, yard tracks lengthened, and the westbound main track will be moved north near the westbound hump office and extending west to "J" tower.

It also is reported that a new transfer house and office building will be constructed. Craig declined to comment on this report.

Operations Speeded Up.

Purpose of the expansion is to speed up operations in handling trains at the Willard yards, one of the main B and O terminals between Chicago and Washington.

Craig said that upon completion of the program, the yards will be able to handle more efficiently the longer trains made possible by Diesel electric and heavier steam locomotives.

Craig has solicited the aid of the Willard Chamber of Commerce in locating an office here for his engineering and drafting departments.

Bank Remodeling Planned.

Meanwhile, another modernization project was reported today when the Civilian Production Administration district office in Cleveland authorized the Willard United bank to proceed with a $19,000 remodeling.

The improvements, designed by Dalton and Dalton, Cleveland architects, include a new front for the building, a new entrance, enlarged main lobby, a directors' and stockholders' assembly room on the second floor, and other changes.

Construction will begin as soon as building materials are available.

BOY SCOUTS TAKE OVER SHELBY IN OBSERVANCE OF ANNIVERSARY

SHELBY—Rev. Samuel U. J Peard of Mansfield, pastor of the Grace Episcopal church, was the principal speaker at the annual Parent-Scout-Cub banquet at the First Methodist church last night in observance of National Boy Scout week.

The event was one of a series planned by Scouts this week in celebration of the 37th anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement.

Shelby Scouts took over the city offices this afternoon as part of the observance. Jerry Dennis, son of Mr and Mrs. Gerald Dennis of Shelby, served as mayor of the city for the afternoon. An Eagle Scout, Dennis is a member of Troop 3 and a freshman at Shelby high school.

A special session of the Scout city council was called during the activities. Holding office as city councilmen for the afternoon were Buddy Cline, Paul Smith, Bill Herlihy and David Hillard. Herlihy's father, James Herlihy is the present first ward councilman.

Others taking charge of city offices were Francis Allwine, law director; David Cline, finance director; David Heck, police chief; and Carl Sifferlin, fire chief.

Rodney Hurl, presiding judge of the board of elections, also was excused from classes for the afternoon to join the Scout city officials. Serving on the election board were Dick Evans, Jack Dunathan and Alan Richards, judges, and Jack Peiffer and Dean Moorman, clerks.

The committee in charge of the banquet included Wayne Carleton, Don Hildebrant, Reymer Bricker, Harley Evans, Robert Bussom, Ross Gates, Albert Barkdull, Jacque Kaler, A. M. Kirkpatrick, Hal Culbertson, Bob George Beebe, Gerald Dennis, W. M. Hassler, O. H. Pfhaler, Ralph Carroll, Roger Pfahler, Ross Sipes, Albert McGaw and Eldon Heck.

Willard Boyles, Shelby district Scout commissioner, headed up the arrangement committee for the Scout Civic day.

Approximately 500 workers were affected in the various plants, the greatest loss occurring at the General Electric plant where approximately 400 workers were off for one week.

Approximately 500 are expected to be present for the sessions which will start with an executive meeting for the ministers and officers of church groups at 5 p. m. A supper will be served from 5 to 6:30 and group conferences are scheduled for 7 o'clock.

Better Be Good! Tiro Now Has an Official Marshal

TIRO—Tiro now has an official marshal. Harold Simpson took the oath of office this week at the meeting of the Tiro village council.

Mayor Frank Sutter administered the oath.

In accepting the appointment as marshal Simpson expressed the hope his duties would not be to heavy as Tiro people are not prone to break laws. But the new marshal is prepared to fulfill all the duties of his office, he declared.

SMITH HEADS GROUP

ASHLAND — Arthur Smith is newly elected president of the Ashland County Conservation committee. The group named its 1947 officers at a meeting in the courthouse. George H. Krill was elected secretary; Harry Aten, farmer representative; Willard Jones, assistant; Gene Russell, sportsman representative, and Ralph Hubler, assistant.

GROUP SEEKS PARKING BAN

SHELBY — The Shelby Better Business club today called for rigid enforcement of the city's two-hour parking limit on downtown streets to relieve congestion.

Meanwhile, the club was awaiting the return of ballots in a referendum conducted by the organization to determine whether the public desires parking meters.

The club may protest before the city council at the meeting Monday passage of an ordinance which would authorize purchase of parking meters. The legislation awaits second reading of the council.

Wayne Hodges, Shelby coal dealer and former director of the club, came out in favor of the meters as a way to get additional revenue for the city's general fund.

Hodges said if the meters were not installed, Shelby would be the only town of its size not having them.

The Shelby Better Business club in a statement said that parking meters are not a step to building a progressive city. The group is in favor of converting Central park into a parking lot.

FEBRUARY LIST OF ACCIDENTS GROWS

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus traffic accidents continued to pile up for February with two more added to the growing list in the last two days, bringing the total to 16 for 12 days, more than one a day.

The most serious and latest accidents occurred Tuesday afternoon at Walnut and East Southern avenues when a City cab driven north on South Walnut street by Dallas Carrington struck a car operated by Mrs. W. F. Harter, 943 Rogers street. Mrs. Harter was taken to City hospital in an ambulance and was treated for shock and bruises. She was later returned to her home. Both vehicles were badly damaged.

Another accident involved cars operated by Dr. Robert Myers and Svend Johansen, both of Bucyrus. The mishap occurred in the 300 block South Sandusky avenue and caused damage to both cars.

On rural routes everywhere in America, on snowy highways of the north, on sunny by-ways of the south, live the 5,500,000 ranch and farm families who produce America's supply of food. It's a big supply, too, the greatest in the world. From your farms and ranches in 1946 came livestock, dairy and poultry products and crops to the value of about twenty-three billion dollars, according to latest available government estimates. Meat animals and dairy and poultry products accounted for about 60 percent of the total farm cash income, current estimates reveal. Agriculture, the nation's most essential industry, is "big business" in every sense of the phrase.

Of all your cash income last year, $981,660,783* came from Swift & Company in payments for livestock and other agricultural raw materials. We purchased your livestock and other products and converted them into millions of pounds of quality meats, valuable by-products, other foods and products. Part of the money you received from Swift came from our meat packing plants, dairy and poultry plants and buying stations. Another portion of the money paid out by us was for soybeans, cottonseed, peanuts and other raw materials.

Swift provides a wide, ready, year 'round market for your livestock and other products—and out of every dollar we receive in a year from sales, we return, on the average, 75¢ to you. Last year, 1.3¢ out of each dollar of sales was profit. Part of this amount was paid out as dividends to the 63,365 shareholders as a return on their investment. Part was retained in the business for future needs.

*The actual amount paid for livestock and other agricultural products is greater than shown by the amount of the subsidies paid by the Government

Returns for Savings. It is not the investment of a few rich people that has built Swift & Company, but the pooled savings of 63,365 people. Among them you'll find farmers, ranchers, lawyers, doctors, mechanics, business people—folks from every walk of life . . . including 29,941 women.

The savings these shareholders have invested in Swift & Company provide the plants and facilities—the tools with which we handle your products. The return for their thriftiness comes to them as dividends paid out of the company's profit. In 1946 that dividend amounted to $1.90 a share.

Soda Bill Sez: . . . what's wrong with people is not their ignorance, but the number of things they know that aren't so.

For People . . . By People

We at Swift & Company think of our business as being owned by 63,365 people, the shareholders and their families, and operated by 66,000 employes. We provide essential services for agricultural producers and many other large groups of people. Employment is created for other thousands who work for railroads, trucking firms, livestock commission houses, stockyards companies, and all the suppliers who furnish us salt, sugar, boxes, barrels, machinery and a thousand-and-one other things. A part of the business of thousands upon thousands of retailers everywhere in the nation is in purveying Swift's quality meats and other products to millions of American families.

In return for all the effort that made these services possible, the folks who work for Swift earned $164,013,099 in wages and salaries in 1946. This sum is 88% of the total remaining after all bills except taxes were paid, and is ten times more than the company's total net profit.

FEED VALUES ARE SOIL VALUES
by Wm. A. Albrecht
University of Missouri

Recently a farmer friend of mine told me, "I've moved to another farm where I get bigger yields in all my feed crops. But even though I shovel much more corn and pitch a lot more hay, I can't get my calves to market as early. I'm just not growing as much meat per acre."

This man doesn't realize that feed bulk is no indication of feed value. Livestock will not gain more on larger rations unless the feed value of any crop is derived from the basic plant food elements found in the soil. The crop must first build up the woody structure that makes up its bulk. Then, if soil conditions are right, the plant will store up a supply of the raw materials of protein, vitamins, and mineral compounds. Thus, whether a crop offers anything more than bulk and fattening power depends on the condition of the soil it grew. Livestock may be fed great quantities of feedstuffs produced on poor soils and still fail to gain weight. It is soil that has been guarded against erosion, fertilized properly, and carefully managed, that grows nutritious crops. Such soil will produce crops that give better feeding results and make more meat per acre.

"WHERE DID THAT $1,308,364,155 GO?"

During 1946 Swift & Company received $1,308,364,155 from the sale of its products and by-products. By the end of the year the Company had earned a net profit of $16,394,739, which is slightly less than 1.3¢ on each dollar of sales.

What happened to the rest of that money?

Well, the largest part was paid to farmers and ranchers who sold us livestock and other agricultural products. They got $981,660,783* or 75¢ out of the average sales dollar we received for products sold, including all by-products such as hides, wool, soybean meal, etc.

The next largest portion of our sales dollar went to all Swift employes. Their share of the dollar was 12.6¢.

Fuel barrels boxes paper salt sugar and other supplies took 4.8¢ out of the average dollar.

Transportation took 2¢. (Meat travels, on the average, over 1,000 miles from producer to consumer.)

Taxes took another 1¢. All other expenses, including depreciation, interest and miscellaneous business costs, amounted to 3.3¢.

All these costs taken out of the sales dollar left 1.3¢. This was Swift & Company's net profit in 1946 — a profit of only ¼ of 1¢ on each pound of the millions of pounds of products and by-products handled.

"MELT" FAT OFF BY THE POUND

"Burn Off" Excess Fat On This Proved Medical Principle

No Starving! No Drugs! No Violent Exercise!

START THE WONDER WHEAT BREAD REDUCING PLAN TODAY and WATCH FAT "MELT" AWAY

Get At Your Grocer's Now!

What It Is And How It Works

If you are overweight due to excess fat, here now is a way you can reduce to that normally slim, military-looking, trim figure you should have. A way not only proved, but requiring no drugs or violent exercises.

And—unless there is some abnormal condition, in which case you should see a doctor—it is guaranteed to "burn off" excess fat because based on a proved principle of medical science.

Of course, check with your doctor first, and then, in the interest of health and a better figure—why not do now what you know you should do—start today and get rid of some of those ugly rolls of fat that now give you an unsightly "3-Bump" figure.

The whole idea of this plan is to provide good food in an amount which permits you to slenderize without medication or strenuous exercise.

"Burns Off" Excess Fat

There's no dosing with racking salts or drugs you know nothing about. No pulling yourself to pieces with violent exercising. And no fainting on a lettuce leaf. This way you even eat many desserts!

You follow the scientific principle proved by doctors that to reduce safely (avoid acidosis) you must get at least a pound of carbohydrates—which provides "the flame fat burns in"—for every pound of fat you burn off.

Simple and Convenient

And it's all so simple. Any woman who can multiply the weight she would like to be by 15 and then subtract 400 can do it.

It is the famous Wonder Wheat Bread Reducing Plan proved so amazingly effective by thousands of women before the war.

And you can get it at your grocer's with every loaf of pre-war quality Wonder Wheat Bread—containing Vitamin B_1.

This vitamin is one science has found necessary to help transform the carbohydrates in bread into "the flame fat burns in."

Then, too, this new Wonder Wheat Bread is made with a specially blended flour which retains moisture better than ordinary whole wheat flour. So you'll find this new Wonder Wheat Bread fresh and delicious!

Just ask your grocer for the Wonder Wheat Bread and the Reducing Plan today—start burning off unsightly fat tomorrow. Supplies limited—get your copy at once.

PROFITABLE WORK FOR YOUNG MEN IN JAPAN

ALL EXPENSES PAID AND $90 PER MONTH

You've heard of the fighting 1st Cavalry Division—first to reach Manila, first in Tokyo. Its men wear Distinguished Unit citations for action on Los Negros, Wwajalein and Leyte.

Today, they're in Japan, and if you are otherwise qualified you can be one of them!

Sports, entertainment and travel opportunities are highly developed in this division's area. Luxurious hotels, theaters, swimming pools, tennis clubs, golf courses and ball parks provide more choice of pastime than is enjoyed by the average civilian at home.

High overseas pay (20% above domestic base pay), excellent medical and dental care, good food and lodging and a generous retirement plan make this opportunity too good to miss.

Young men who can meet prescribed standards, and who enlist for 3 years, are entitled to designate the 1st Cavalry Division (Mechanized) at time of enlistment. Initial training given before departure from U. S. Get full details at U. S. Army Recruiting Station, P. O. Bldg., Mansfield, O.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

A wealthy Baltimore dowager was driving home from a first-aid course in her shiny Cadillac when she suddenly spied a man lying flat on his face in the middle of the street.

"Stop the car, Charles," she cried to her chauffeur. "Here's my chance to practice what I learned in class today."

She piled out of the car, landed her full 180 pounds astride the prone figure and began pumping the man's arms violently up and down. The surprised victim finally managed to find his voice. "For the luvva Mike, lady," he entreated, "leave me be will ya? I don't know what you're doing but I'm trying to locate a leak in this sewer."

A bewildered tourist was mighty pleased one day in a remote part of Scotland when a kilted Highlander finally hove into view. "I have never been gladder to see a man," cried the American. "I seem to be lost."

"What reward are they offering for ye?" inquired the dour Scotchman.

"None that I know of," said the puzzled American.

"Weel," remarked the Highlander as he continued on his way, "you're still lost."

DIVIDENDS AID MARKET RALLY

NEW YORK —(UP)— Publication of favorable financial statements by several corporations, plus a better dividend for Atlas Corp. stockholders, helped the market rally today.

Woolworth reported record 1946 sales and a 15-year top in net income; National Distillers had record sales and net profit last year; United Fruit reported improved 1946 earnings. Atlas Corp., which boosted its annual dividend by 10 cents, reported a rise of nearly $2 a share in net asset value.

A number of issues were outstanding gainers around noon, including American Woolen, National Distillers, Lima Locomotive, Coca-Cola, Atlas Corp., and Lone Star Cement, all up a point or more, and Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies, up ¾.

Chrysler, down 2½ at the opening, recovered a point. Rails tended higher. Steels were slightly lower on balance.

Perrysville Boy Winner Of Pest Hunt

ASHLAND—Winner of the Ashland county pest hunt is Earl Royer, Perrysville vocational agriculture sophmore. He netted 6,764 point in the contest participated in by 270 student of eight vocational agriculture departments of Ashland county schools.

Second place winner was Robert Barr, Ashland, with 6,494 points and third place went to Karl Kenner, Ashland, with 5,358 points.

Ruggles chapter won first place as a unit, Sullivan second and Perrysville, third. Points were given as follows: mice, three, rats, ten; sparrows, five; starlings, ten; pigeons, 15; moles, 15; crows, 50; foxes and weasels, 100 each.

The contest is held annually to rid the county of pests which destroy food products, carry disease and cause other harm.

BOARD TO SURVEY WATER IN WILLARD

WILLARD — The Ohio Water Resource board will make a survey of the Willard city water wells next summer to determine the quantity of water available here, it was announced today.

The announcement followed a conference this week between Ralph J. Bernhagen, chief geologist of the water board, and members of the Willard Chamber of Commerce.

Harlow Stapf, president of the chamber, said he had learned that the board had listed the water supply of Willard as "limited."

Such a report, Stapf said, might prevent industries which were considering locating here from choosing the city. Quantity of water available is one of the prime determining factors considered by industries.

The entire estate of John L. Catlett, late state representative from Richland county, was left to his wife, Mary C. Catlett, Catlett's will admitted for probate yesterday revealed.

Mrs. Catlett was nominated to serve as executrix, without bond, and was given full power of attorney in her late husband's will.

Under the terms of the will, Mrs. Catlett will have the power to settle any liabilities and to convey or sell all or any part of the estate that she may deem proper, after payment of funeral expenses, without a court order.

FAILURE TO DIVORCE FIRST WIFE CHARGED

Charles Nelson Miller, 90 South Main street, was named defendant in a divorce action filed yesterday by Nellie Davis Miller, 266 Elmwood drive. She charged he had been married to another woman since 1911, and married to her in 1945 without having divorced his first wife.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant represented himself to be an unmarried man when they were married March 17, 1945 in Mansfield. She said she had learned that he married Sarah Bucy Miller at Elyria, July 14, 1911, and that they were never divorced.

Her petition states that she did not know of the defendant's other wife at the time she married him.

MURRAY MUM ON PROPOSED UNION MERGER

CIO Leader Plans Pow-Wow With Top Advisers Before Taking Stand on Issue.

PITTSBURGH —(ANS)— President Philip Murray declined today to consider the proposed CIO-AFL merger into the world's largest labor federation until after next week's Washington pow-wow with his top advisers.

A spokesman for the labor chieftain said Murray was meeting with the CIO vice presidents in the nation's capital Monday and later with the CIO executive board to explore the advisability of consolidating the two labor bodies.

The spokesman pointed out that the Washington conference was merely exploratory, adding that a merger was very, very far in the offing. He added:

"The CIO is a vertical union—embodying the masses, while the AFL is a craft union. To merge the two at this time would create chaos and many CIO members would be without union support—that is, the AFL dominates the new setup."

Labor leaders, however, said the AFL has agreed, in the event of a consolidation, that none of the present CIO unions will be broken up for at least 20 years.

Action Not Likely.

Both AFL and CIO officials have refrained from public expression but are unanimous in the off-the-record talks that an early merger was impossible.

Murray himself remained silent, but a source close to the CIO chieftain said the main stumbling block to blending the two unions was held by both AFL and CIO leaders to be the question of agreeing on a craft vs. industrial form of organization.

It is generally known that Dan Tobin, president of the AFL Teamsters union, and big Bill Hutchinson, of the Carpenters union, bitterly oppose the merger. At present Tobin's teamsters are waging a jurisdictional fight with the CIO Brewery Workers in Pittsburgh. It has been in progress for 131 days.

Another sore spot in the proposed merger is the six-year-old feud between John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers and Murray. CIO officials say that Murray is too families with Lewis technique and before a merger is effected the CIO chieftain would demand some guarantee, in writing, to keep Lewis in line. This, they pointed out, would be almost impossible.

'Wayward Bus,' New Steinbeck Novel, Coming to City Library

THE WAYWARD BUS, Johna Steinbeck's first full-length novel in eight years and Book of the Month club selection for March, will be released to readers Monday at the Mansfield Public library.

In this book a group of people find themselves, by accident, sharing an adventure which lasts less than a day. Among them are a successful business man, his wife and daughter, a traveling salesman of gadgets, a youth who is planning to study radar, and Camille, who through no fault of her own had a lure for men. The writing is Steinbeck at his best and simplest.

* * *

DULCIMER STREET, by Norman Collins, is a story of London and of Londoners who lived at 10 Dulcimer street. The novel probes deeply into the make-up of each individual—from Connie, the elderly night-club girl, to Mr. Squales, the newcomer, and Percy Boon, who gets into serious trouble. The time is from Christmas of 1938 to New Year's day of 1941.

THE GREAT BALSAMO, by Maurice Zolotow, covers the life, loves and dark destiny of a great magician. From Brooklyn boyhood to haunted maturity and death, the mind of Barney Balsamo is skillfully probed. The scenes and actions to which his strange fears and yearnings drove him, from a sideshow performer and fake medium, to the world's greatest escape artist are fully detailed. This book is for readers who relish the unusual.

Other fiction: NIGHT CLIMB, Harper; IT MIGHT LEAD ANYWHERE, Punshon; DIM VIEW, Heater; ANDROMEDA, Marmur; THURSDAY'S BLADE, Davis.

* * *

THE SHORE DIMLY SEEN, by Ellis Gibbs Arnall, former Georgia governor, tells of his fight against the Ku Klux Klan, southern reactionaries, and railroads. More than an inside account of the past, this book gives the forthright views on foreign relations, labor and industrial policies of a man who has made a national name for himself. The book is filled with personal and political revelations, including the reasons for some important decisions by President Roosevelt, who authorized Gov. Arnall to announce his fourth term candidacy.

BY BOYHOOD IN A PARSONAGE is the autobiography of Thomas Lamont, who was the son of a Methodist minister in the farm district of the Hudson valley. They were wealthier in good works than in material things and, looking back today, Thomas Lamont remembers many a practical lesson. Everyone will enjoy his intimate story for his book illustrates, with charm and wit, the tenets of true democracy and self-reliance that make up the best in the American way of living.

THE LINCOLN READER, edited by Paul Angle, former Mansfielder, is a collection of notable writings about Lincoln's life. It includes excerpts from gifted biographers and selections from the works of politicians, newspaper reporters, and lawyers. Taken as a whole the book presents one of the most entertaining and historical accurate Lincoln biographies.

Other non-fiction includes: GREAT ADVENTURES AND EXPLORATIONS, Stefannson; MADEMOISELLE HANDBOOK, Hammon; METALLURGY OF STEEL, Briggs; GUIDANCE PRACTICES AT WORK, Erickson; ELEMENTARY SCHOOL SUBJECTS, Cole; U. S. CAMERA 1947; FAMOUS VIOLINISTS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE, Burch; NATIONAL ANTHEMS OF THE UNITED NATIONS; HOW TO WRITE AND PUBLISH THE SONG IN YOUR HEART, Knight.

Koloze, an escaper from the Ohio State reformatory here, charged with breaking and entering, was committed to the Lima state hospital for mental observation at the request of his defense attorney.

The case of Clarence Black, charged with first degree manslaughter, was continued until March 3. Black has pleaded innocent.

ASKS DAMAGES AFTER CRASH

Charles H. Wendland, 63-year-old invalid who a year ago was severely injured when a tractor-trailer struck and demolished his home on Ashland hill, today asked damages totaling $63,211.

His petition, filed in common pleas court by Attys. John C. O'Donnell and C. H. Henkel, names Lecrone-Benedict Ways, Inc., Columbus and Leroy Eddy, Platea, Pa., 24-year-old driver of the truck, as defendants.

The accident occurred in the afternoon of Dec. 19, 1945, when Eddy lost control of his truck on ice-covered Ashland hill and it crashed through Wendland's home. Gas tanks exploded and the dwelling burned nearly to the ground.

Wendland, pinned under the vehicle, was severely injured. Paralyzed from the hips down for the previous seven years, Wendland listed in the petition the injuries he received in the mishap: fractures of the pelvis, both legs, upper right ribs, the left ankle and the clavicle, dislocation of the left foot and numerous other including nervous shock.

The petition lists the value of the house at $6,500 and of its contents at $4,500. It claims Wendland was hospitalized for 47 days and confined to his bed thereafter for six months.

GERMAN COAL OUTPUT GROWS

ESSEN —(AP)— Ruhr coal production, regarded by British and American experts in Germany as the key to recovery, finally is making steady and substantial strides forward.

The output slumped to 147,000 tons a day about a year ago when food rations were reduced in the British zone. It slowly climbed to around 180,000 tons during the latter part of 1946. Now it is consistenly above the 200,000 ton mark.

Lt. Gen. Sir Brian H. Robertson, deputy military governor of the British zone, has voiced confidence that production will reach 300,000 tons a day this year.

A figure of 400,000 tons would enable the wheels of industry to turn throughout Europe, Brig. Gen. William H. Draper, jr., economics chief of the American zone, believes.

The drive for all-out coal production was signalled by the visit to Essen recently by Robertson and Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American zone deputy military governor.

Administration of the Ruhr mines remains under the British-operated North German coal control, but, acting under the recent economic merger of the two zones, Clay was able to give assurance that the Americans will give both tangible and intangible help.

Rev. Lincicome will be assisted during the services by Rev. Dale Moore of Celina, who will have charge of the music.

REV. FORMAN LINCICOME

A minister and evangelist for 41 years, Rev. Lincicome has conducted evangelistic services in 25 church denominations and in many of the largest tabernacles in the United States and Onada.

Rev. Moore is a veteran of World War II, having served in Germany and Austria. He was graduated from the Olivet Nazarene college of Olivet, Ill., and while a student there was a member of the Orpheus choir. He will conduct the song service and sing several special numbers during each meeting.

Barclay On Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

If a player is going to "cut didoes" in the bidding in a strained effort to pull out some top scores in a duplicate tournament, he usually must be prepared to back it up with good work in the play. Sometimes just plain good work is not enough. Fancy work may be necessary, based partly on the kind of opponents against him at the time. If he knows one of them as a trickster who hates to do the orthodox thing if he can find something unusual to try, he must be a little that way himself.

Just follow West's cogitations as that bidding developed. When East came in at the level of two with his hearts, after both opponents had bid and with himself vulnerable, West placed him with a pretty useful hand. Notice then how South made a free raise of the spades. West, with good plugers in his four-card lengths of both hostile black suits, saw a possibility of a "shot" in No Trumps later or perhaps a double, so passed to await developments. When North did nothing over South's free raise, and East then went to three to show his diamonds, West decided not to make the normal call of 4-Hearts, but attempt 3-No Trumps.

North sprang the fancy opening lead of the diamond 9, and West put on his deep-thinking cap. That could hardly be a natural short-suit lead, he decided, since South who never made "short club" openings, had shown nine black cards. He decided therefore to play South for the diamond K, possibly singleton, so came up with the dummy's A. When that dropped the K, he got a total of five tricks in diamonds, four in hearts and one each in the black suits, for a large top score.

GERMAN COAL OUTPUT GROWS

ESSEN —(AP)— Ruhr coal production, regarded by British and American experts in Germany as the key to recovery, finally is making steady and substantial strides forward

The output slumped to 147,000 tons a day about a year ago when food rations were reduced in the British zone. It slowly climbed to around 180,000 tons during the latter part of 1946. Now it is consistenly above the 200,000 ton mark.

Lt. Gen. Sir Brian H. Robertson, deputy military governor of the British zone, has voiced confidence that production will reach 300,000 tons a day this year.

A figure of 400,000 tons would enable the wheels of industry to turn throughout Europe, Brig. Gen. William H. Draper, jr., economics chief of the American zone, believes.

The drive for all-out coal production was signalled by the visit to Essen recently by Robertson and Lt. Gen. Lucius D Clay, American zone deputy military governor.

Administration of the Ruhr mines remains under the British-operated North German coal control, but, acting under the recent economic merger of the two zones, Clay was able to give assurance that the Americans will give both tangible and intangible help.

Barclay On Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

If a player is going to "cut didoes" in the bidding in a strained effort to pull out some top scores in a duplicate tournament, he usually must be prepared to back it up with good work in the play. Sometimes just plain good work is not enough. Fancy work may be necessary, based partly on the kind of opponents against him at the time If he knows one of them as a trickster who hates to do the orthodox thing if he can find something unusual to try, he must be a little that way himself.

Just follow West's cogitations as that bidding developed When East came in at the level of two with his hearts, after both opponents had bid and with himself vulnerable, West placed him with a pretty useful hand Notice then how South made a free raise of the spades. West, with good pluggers in his four-card lengths of both hostile black suits, saw a possibility of a "shot" in No Trumps later or perhaps a double, so passed to await developments When North did nothing over South's free raise, and East then went to three to show his diamonds, West decided not to make the normal call of 4-Hearts, but attempt 3-No Trumps.

North sprang the fancy opening lead of the diamond 9, and West put on his deep-thinking cap That could hardly be a natural short-suit lead, he decided, since South who never made "short club" openings, had shown nine black cards. He decided therefore to play South for the diamond K, possibly singleton, so came up with the dummy's A When that dropped the K, he got a total of five tricks in diamonds, four in hearts and one each in the black suits, for a large top score.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

PAGE SIX — MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1947

Gambling seems to be another of the activities in which "self-policing" is impractical.

Word comes that counterfeiters are becoming more active —which encourages an idea that one should be careful not to accept money from strangers.

Britons were apparently expecting too much of the Labor government—even over here comparatively few people expect congress to control the weather.

More People Are Reading Newspapers

HOWEVER much time they are giving to other things, more people are doing more reading than ever before. Daily newspapers all over the country have had an amazing growth in circulation in recent years. According to Editor & Publisher, leading trade publication, circulation of daily newspapers in the United States has soared from little above 35 million in 1933 to 50 million in 1946, and shortage of paper has prevented many of them from adding to their circulation.

Experience in some cities in which readers were temporarily deprived by their newspapers because of a strike in some department of the papers, served to emphasize the indispensability of the newspaper to the community it serves, and to prove the absence of any other medium as a substitute.

Kansas City, Mo., served by the Star and Times, is the most recent example of a big city deprived of local newspaper service as the result of a strike in one department. The strike lasted 17 days, having marked the first interruption in the 66 years of the Star's history.

An editorial comment, when publication was resumed, is illuminating: "Experience demonstrated that radio fell far short of filling the gap . . . The difficulty was fundamental. . . . It proved physically impossible for the radio to cover more than the barest of essentials . . . On the other hand the intrusion of so much news proved a burden on the devotees of radio who resented interruption of regular programs by news announcements . . . Some persons have expressed the idea that eventually radio will substitute for news coverage. This is just as absurd as to believe a newspaper could supplant radio programs by publishing the score of the music and the gags."

One of the widely accepted responsibilities of the newspaper profession is that nothing shall be permitted to stand in the way of regular publication, and many difficulties have been overcome in achieving this objective. It is regrettable that workers in any department of a newspaper should ever feel impelled to adopt the strike technique, for the penalty they impose upon the community of which they are a part is more far-reaching than they probably have taken into account.

Flock of Divorce Cases Next Week

TIME WAS when the trial of a divorce case in common pleas court was enough of a novelty to attract a full court room of interested spectators. Now, however, the severing of marital ties has become so commonplace as to pass almost unnoticed—except, perhaps, for "close friends of the family."

Next week, for instance, in addition to being "Brotherhood week," will be "Divorce 'em week" in Richland county common pleas court—with 35 such cases set for hearing from Monday through Friday.

Most of the cases, to be sure, are to be uncontested, but certainly at least a few of them should present a sufficiently unattractive picture of marital dissension to reveal characteristics that tend to change the "until death do us part" commitment of the marriage ceremony to "until divorce doth us separate."

Students of human relations may find it illuminating to listen in on some of those hearings in common pleas court next week.

Omar Khayyam Said It Long Ago

JUST HOW a "craze" develops in this country may sometime be made the subject of scientific research, but whether it should come within the field of psychology or psychiatry is an open question.

A little while ago it was the nonsensical "Mairzy Doats" that swept the country, even to the extent of invading the so-called "higher degree of intelligence"—and then the mysterious Kilroy came along to break the monotony of sensible conversation and cogitation.

Now it is "Open the door, Richard," that is being presented as a sure-fire appeal to the risibility of all who hear it, either as a song or as a wise-crack designed to cause almost uncontrollable laughter.

While that "Open the door" thing is being foisted upon the public as the brilliant thought of some live-wire originator of clever songs and sayings, a delver into literature comes up with the confirmed claim that the whole idea is a pick-up from the good old Persian poet, Omar Khayyam (early 12th century), whose "Rubaiyat" deals quite frequently with a closed door. As, for instance, in the third stanza, ". . . and as the cock crew, those who stood before the tavern shouted, 'Open then the door!'"; and in the 32d stanza: "There was the door to which I found no key."

But way over in the 76th stanza—it's quite a long poem, you know—the whole thing is clarified by disclosure that, "Of my base metal can be filed a key that shall unlock the door he howls without."

All that Omar seems to have missed is association of the closed door with the name "Richard," but identification of the place as a "tavern" quite satisfactorily explains the condition of "he who howls without."

Who knows, maybe "Richard" is Kilroy's first name—in any event, cheer up, it isn't likely to last long.

Arabian Deserts Conceal Treasure

THE barren deserts of Arabia may contain as much oil as the entire reserves of the United States, according to American oil companies which have made arrangements with King Ibn Saud to develop his country.

For years treasure-laden caravans have made their way across these sands. They little knew that even greater treasures were beneath their feet.

It may not be as difficult as you may think—the information is to the effect that a Californian found a needle in a haystack in less than four hours.

It is reported that Chinese have found uranium deposits near the Russian border—which seems to call for a Soviet revision of the border.

Claude Callan reminds: "Other people's burdens seem light because they are on other people's shoulders."

Pearson Says Republican Attack On Lilienthal Follows GOP Plan

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTOON — Sen. Styles Bridges' week-end assault on David E. Lilienenthal's nomination as chairman of the atomic energy commission stemms from a source other than Bridges himself.

The New Hamampshire Republican merely fiired the opening gun in a newlaly-organized GOP campaign to dhdiscredit any Truman appointeeses who may have served in high a federal posts under Franklin H Roosevelt.

Taft, self-appopointed "king-fish" of the Republicman party on Capitol Hill, has passssed down the word that no Democrrrat of New Dealish tinge is to havwe any post of importance.

In an informaaal Friday afternoon caucus of a smaall coterie of GOP senators, the OHOhioan let his views be known, winnnding up with the observation, "asand we might as well begin on LILilienthal."

There followered some discussion as to who wouuld be the first to object to the fformer TVA chieftain's appointmment to the atomic energy body.

"Well," concluuded Taft, "we will pick someone wwho comes from an area remote from Tennessee. Styles Bridges lives way up in New England, s so he's nominated for the kick-offff."

* * *

Back Wagoges for Labor.

It was a quietet, sleepy session of the house judiciciary subcommittee sitting on the OGwynne bill which would ban all o claims for portal-to-portal pay. Big guns of the CIO and the AAFL had appeared the day before. . Only a few government witnesses plus Irving Richter, UAW-CIO legislative director, were left to be heard.

No newspapermen were on hand, and only three committee members — Representatives John Gwynne of Waterloo, Iowa: Kenneth Keating of New York and Angier Goodwin of Massachusetts —all Republicans. Gwynne gave Richter permission to read a prepared statement.

On the spur of the moment Richter suddenly threw aside his carefully typed statement. Tired of hearing labor constantly on the defensive, he took the offensive. Drawing upon his experience as one-time economist for the labor department's wage and hour division, he said:

"Congressman Gwynne, you speak in your bill about serious inequities and hardships. You refer to the employers' complaint that the law has been unfairly enforced by the administrator and by the courts. If you are interested in 'hardships' and 'serious inequities' you are looking in the wrong direction."

Hurrying lest he be interrupted, Richter accused the wage and hour division of cheating workers out of millions of dollars in back pay through one-sided settlement of disputes. In some cases, he said, no back pay was given even though it was found that employers had been violating the laws for months or years back.

"And where fines were assessed," he continued, "they were so ridiculously low that chiselers were encouraged to violate the law because they were sure to profit in the long run."

Richter read from trade journals telling employers how to violate the law by claiming their workers were "independent contractors."

And as the three congressmen listened in astonished silence, Richter went on to expose sweatshop conditions still existing in many parts of the USA.

* * *

Slave Conditions In 1943.

"These are the conditions this committee should look into," he said. "As late as 1943 I found workers in Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina being paid five and six dollars a week, working six days from 'cain't to cain't.' That means: You cain't see when you start work and you cain't see when you quit.

"To get around the law," Richter charged, "employers were calling truck drivers and wood cutters 'independent contractors.'

"Gentlemen," he continued, "why don't you look into the case where 100,000 workers in the wood pulp and paper industry were cheated out of three million dollars a month for three years and the settlement was made without a penny of back wages to the men?

"Why don't you ask the wage and hour division why no single corporation official was convicted, even though there were willful, planned methods of evasion worked out by the industry?"

The Gwynne bill, he added, would protect these violators not only for the past but for future violations as well.

Violations were shown in 37,000 of 42,000 wage and hour division investigations last year, Richter pointed out—"and in less than half these cases—17,082 to be exact—was any back pay given at all."

Congressman Gwynne, author of the portal-to-portal pay ban, shifted nervously in his chair as Richter finished.

"No questions," he said and adjourned the meeting.

Farmer's Diary: "Boys Who Think."

INITIATIVE is a wonderful trait- and nowhere does a boy develop it better than on a farm . . . that is, if his father permits him to go it alone, and brags on him a little when he is successful.

A farmer I know went out to his hog lot and found all the farrowing sheds tilted sidewise. "How come?" he wondered of the teen-age boy.

"I read in one of the magazines that a sow will always lie with her back uphill and never lay on the pigs if the floor of the house is slanted. It didn't take long to prop one side up, and I thought we'd try it.

They haven't lost any pigs yet and together they have planned several new sheds for early litters.

An inventive, mechanically-minded boy can find many spurs to his ingenuity in doing farm chores. He can become excited over new attachments for the tractor—a hoist, rake, manure loader, dirt litter buzz saw, mower or posthole digger. He can figure ways to make machinery do most of the farm tasks.

And on rainy days, he can delight in repairing engines, or taking apart the machinery to make needed repairs. Greasy clothes and blackened hands and face are merely signs of health and developing manhood.

Very often the boy is a better bookkeeper than his Dad. If that is true, let him keep the records—and plan with him where the money will go. Both father and son will profit by a better companionship and a mutual respect. Besides there will be less money spent foolishly.

And gradually the father can ease out of the burden of heavy work, leaving it to younger shoulders. Gradually the old ideas give way to the modern ones of youth and the machine age. Yet always enough of the stability and goodness of the old ways carries over—and farming can never become a purely mechanical job. Rather it is a way of life—an informal school of living where lessons are found in every common thing.

What other vocation can compare with it? There is none.

High-Powered Lobbying Is Aimed Against VA.

WASHINGTON—Not long ago, General Omar Bradley spoke sadly about the much-talked-of threat that the new economy-minded congress would chop large chunks out of the Veterans Administration program.

In addition to being one member of the wartime star-bearing brethren who can really claim to have been beloved by some of the most brass-hating GI's, General Bradley is boss of the Veterans Administration.

Thus, a lot of people thought he merely was indulging in some early-bird lobbying for his own organization. They couldn't be farther from the truth.

As usual, Omar merely was giving the boys an honest briefing on the type of tough resistance they were likely to meet in the new legislative session.

For there is a definite and easily-distinguished movement underfoot on Capitol Hill today to ridicule the veteran as a "something for nothing" slacker, in order to slice the V.A. appropriations wherever possible and provide federal cash for more popular projects.

Understand, it isn't the congressmen themselves who are doing it. They merely are the victims of a lot of daily, high-powered lobbying aimed in that direction.

Reprints of several nationally-published articles ridiculing the "52-20 club" suddenly have cropped up on Capitol Hill. If they merely stuck to the truth—that quite a lot of veterans have loafed a year on their $20 a week compensation—it still would be a matter of honest curiosity as to why they're cropping up now. Unfortunately, they haven't even stuck to the truth.

One of the articles most popularly passed around on the Hill nowadays first appeared in a nationally-known ladies magazine. Then it was reprinted in a famous digest magazine. Apparently, neither the author nor the editors of either magazine bothered to check the truth of so-called "facts" it presented about the "52-20" club.

For at one place in his piece, the writer says that three million veterans are "now taking benefits." Subsequently, he implies that they are getting their $20-a-week for a full year.

The truth, easily available at the Veterans Administration, through unquestioned records, is this: never has there been even two million men on the 52-20 rolls at one time. Currently, the total is—and usually is—far below one million. Actually, only about 50,000 veterans yet have drawn their $20 a week for the full 52 weeks. That is about one-half of one per cent of all the men and women who served their country in uniform.

The truth goes further than that. The average unemployed veteran—discounting those who came to jobs which were waiting on their discharge—only collected the twenty bucks for eight to ten weeks.

And that figure largely involves those kids who went into the service directly from school and had no idea what kind or type of work to look for when they got out!

I'd like to meet the gent who wrote that article. I'd also like to talk with the man who presumed on his wartime service in air corps public relations to charge—in another national magazine story now widely circulated on the Hill—that even amputee veterans are chiselers. In his imperishable piece of prose, he said that the bill which gave automobiles to some 16,000 veterans who lost arms and legs during the war "was high-pressured through congress in a fashion which may be a prelude to what is to come. Armless and legless vets were corralled at the Walter Reed hospital for a demonstration staged by the bill's sponsor. . . . There, they waylaid congressmen in the corridors and brandished their stumps and crutches in as undignified a whine for alms as the Capitol has witnessed. . . ."

Despite the sickening aspect of such stories, they have their effect today, regardless of the efforts of such men as General Bradley, American Legion Commander Paul Griffith, Amvets Head Raymond Sawyer, AVC Leader Charles Bolte and others who point to the record when lobbying interests start ridiculing the veteran untruthfully.

All of those men give the lie to such stories. But still the lobbyists enlist everybody available—including a new lobbying outfit which purports (untruthfully) to be run by veterans—in their effort to sidetrack veterans' appropriations by trying to prove that yesterday's war hero merely is today's drain on the public purse.

Lilienthal Becomes "Symbol" In Senate Fight.

WASHINGTON — The senate fight over David Lilienthal as chairman of the atomic energy commission has now resolved itself into the issue that faces this country for the future.

This is whether we are going forward, both in our domestic affairs and internationally, or whether we are going backward.

It is no longer so much the question of David Lilienthal the individual, the proved public servant, but of David Lilienthal the symbol.

Behind the fight against him are concentrated the forces of economic and political reaction and economic and political isolationism. That has become clear.

It draws from both parties. This is manifest in the coalition that is forming to accomplish defeat of his confirmation. It draws together once again, as so often in the past few years, midwest Republicans, now dominant in senate as in house, and southern conservatives, with exceptions, of course.

Different groups, for different reasons, have coalesced against him.

First are the isolationists. They are reviving once again. They are against Mr. Lilienthal because he symbolizes, along with many other distinguished men in public office and outside, the plan for international control of the atomic bomb and atomic energy. Isolationists seem to think in some way we can hug forever to our breasts "the secret," though scientists know differently.

Second, there are private interests, including manufacturers and patent lawyers, who fight through him the compulsory licensing of atomic energy inventions and devices voted by congress.

This fight is futile. It would defeat the purposes of private industry, itself, since the sole rights to some important atomic device would create a monopoly and freeze out other interests which would be the first to howl, as would their representatives in congress.

Compulsory licensing is essential to protect business itself, not to speak of the general public interest.

Third, there are, as always, the private-power interests which would be the first to howl, as would their representatives in congress.

Compulsory licensing its essential to protect business itself, not to speak of the general public interest.

Third, there are, as always, the private-power interests which fight Mr. Lilienthal because for so long he personified public power at cheap rates as head of the Tennessee Valley Authority, that great and successful regional development in the South which could be duplicated in other riversheds.

All of these groups speak through representatives in congress.

The Lilienthal nomination, like the reciprocal-tariff program, has become a test of international cooperation on other than purely political lines as represented by the United Nations.

Here again we can learn whether the policy of bipartisan co-operation on foreign policy is a reality or whether it is a shadow that will quickly fade when the real test comes.

Senator Taft has indicated to friends that he would oppose Mr. Lilienthal. If he does, he assumes a grave responsibility, for he will influence other Republicans because of his party position. This is hardly a party and political matter.

Republicans, though some do not seem to realize it now, are squarely up against an issue on which the decision may reach far ahead of us into history, just as were some they made in that other era after World War I.

Coal Miners Busy as Future Is Unsettled.

WASHINGTON—Miners in the bituminous coal fields are mining a record volume of coal. The figure for the week ending February 1 was 13,800,000 tons. For the second week in January it was 13,700,000 tons. These figures are compiled in the department of the interior.

The federal government is still boss of the bituminous coal industry, with the future dependent on the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers.

From week to week, Secretary of the Interior Julius A. Krug and the navy officers doing the actual work of mine supervision have awaited the momentous ruling. The process of the turning the mines back to private ownership will not get very far until both sides in the dispute know where they stand.

When Lewis called off the coal strike last December, he said that work would go on without interruption up to a March 31 deadline. The deadline is fast approaching.

Although production in recent weeks has been at a record high, consumption has also been high and coal reserves are not very much larger than they were when the crippling strike ended.

If the court rules that the government had no right to enjoin Lewis and the United Mine Workers, then Lewis will make the most of a technical victory. He has been very quiet since that day of drama when he ended the strike with all the flourishes of a veteran actor of the school of Shakespearean tragedy. But with a technical triumph, the Lewis volcano would certainly become active again.

If the court rules that the government had a perfect right to enjoin Lewis, then the task of getting the mines back to private ownership will be comparatively simple. The northern mine owners and the owners of the captive mines seem to be willing to negotiate a contract with Lewis that will include the disputed welfare-fund clause.

To finance the welfare fund, five cents a ton is being set aside for every ton of coal mined. That is a reasonable sum, in the opinion of the government bosses now operating the mines. They believe the northern owners would accept it.

The southern owners are something else again. But with an agreement from the north in his pocket, the probability is that Lewis would eventually get a similar contract from the operators in the south.

The present record production has little or nothing to do with the fact that the mines are still being operated by the government. To begin with, it is a sellers' market. Industrial production remains at a high level, and the demand for coal is consequently also high.

As for the miners, they have felt the pinch of several strikes in recent years. They want to get in all possible overtime to make up for their losses, and what is more, they must pay high prices for necessities. Miners' pay has averaged $60 to $65 a week in recent weeks.

Even the government should win the case before the Supreme Court, the probability is for a strike after March 31. It has become a kind of tradition with the miners to take a vacation beginning April 1. The demand for coal eases off about that time, and the men in the mines like to get in a little fishing and loafing.

Dave Boone Says:

I THINK Senator Ferguson has something when he says "a bad rash of hyper-egotism has infected the higher levels of official life" in Washington and that the custom of carting home vanloads of records for personal memoirs is "a pernicious practice."

* * *

"Many of our public servants have been so conceited over their part in the drama of events that they can't resist the temptation to take all of the scripts with them when they leave the public stage," says the senator. "They are intoxicated by the joyful anticipation of making revelations in the 'now-it-can-be-told' manner."

* * *

Gosh, senator, it's been so that when a fellow was named to a cabinet job or thereabouts the first question anybody asked was "who's his publisher?"

* * *

In cases where two or three cabinet officers got out of office at about the same time they had to enforce special traffic rules for vans loaded with government records. Otherwise there would have been collisions all along the roads between Washington and the book-publishing centers.

Back to the Farm.

A farm, someone once said, is a place where a boy works to get the money to get to the city where he can work to get the money to get back to the farm.

In simpler terms, this statement recognizes a circle experience in our society which has thousands of city dwellers dreaming of the time when they can obtain a place in the country, with some chickens, a riding horse or two, and the contentment of life close to the soil.

The dream, according to the Department of Agriculture, has come true for a percentage, at least, of the candidates. Farm population now, a department report says, is seven percent greater than a year ago with the figure still climbing.

The department adds that smaller farms are becoming popular, an indication of the resolution of many to keep a part-time job in the city, while spending their off days in working their acres.—McKeesport News.

Richland County Youths Fill Ashland Classrooms

More Mansfielders are registered as regular students at Ashland college than ever before in the history of that institution, Dr. R. W. Bixler, president of the college, told Mansfield Kiwanis club members yesterday.

"From a prewar average of 300 students, and a war time low of 100 enrollees, the institution has grown to a record 530 enrolled at the start of the second semester this year," Dr. Bixler pointed out. "Of this total 44 are from Mansfield and 90 from Richland county."

Peak enrollments are expected by the second semester of 1948. At that time the college may have from 650 to 700 students. When enrollments level off it is expected to average considerably higher than the prewar period.

* * *

LARGE enrollments bring with them the inevitable problems of college unity and space," Dr. Bixler pointed out. "Even in the small schools it has become difficult for the students to get to know one another.

"The greatest problems of the colleges today are housing and teachers," Bixler pointed out. "Ashland college, though faced with the problem, is fortunate in that the majority of its students are from the Ashland-Richland county area and live at home. Government built facilities for 24 single veterans and 18 families soon will be completed.

"Ashland college is also fortunate with regard to securing a faculty. Many people in the area have been trained as teachers and have responded to the call so that the faculty there is in good shape."

* * *

THE QUESTIONS of expense are assuming great proportions in private schools of which Ashland college is an example, Bixler added. For example, he cited the fact that a budget of two years ago figured at $137,000 had increased for this year to $262,000. To colleges depending primarily on endowments, the interest on which has been steadily declining, the answer has necessarily been to increase the tuition. Thus the student has had to assume more of the burden of college expenses.

Johnny Appleseed P-T. A. Hears Talk By C.C. Byers

C. C. Byers, superintendent of Tarma schools, used "Education Can Be Fun" as his topic when he was guest speaker Thursday night at the Johnny Appleseed Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association meeting.

The possibility of approaching serious things from a humorous point of view was stressed by Mr. Byers. "We cannot separate the school, he declared, because parents also are teachers and must be careful making "snap judgment" statements before children. They must think before speaking.

"A sound education is the most important preventive instrument in society," Mr Byers said, "and we cannot be too careful of the type of education we give our youth.

Mr. Byers pointed out that business and industry are beneficiaries of an educational system since they get the products of our schools and so we need to give those schools the financial and moral backing to train people for business and industry.

The ninth grade girls' ensemble presented three musical numbers under the direction of Miss Ellena Percy and Miss Jean Turner, also of the ninth grade, gave a vocal solo, "I Dream of Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair." She was accompanied by Miss Kay Spreng.

Federation of Women Hear Young Drama Critic at Ohio

By OLIVE GRESMER

STEPHEN GARRETT of New York, youngest of the drama critics, was the guest speaker yesterday before an audience composed of members of the Mansfield Federation of Women. The informal lecture was presented at the Ohio theater at which time Garrett gave a concise review of the current Broadway dramas and musicals.

The program was opened by the president of the federation, Mrs. G. J. Searle, jr., who introduced the speaker, telling briefly of the background of the critic and of his experience as a reviewer at theatrical openings in New York, the hub of play presentations.

STEVEN GARRETT

Garrett opened his lecture by stating that the two popular plays, "Abie's Irish Rose," and "Tobacco Road" were the only ones that had ever survived despite the critics. He told of the influence of the New York drama critics, on the larger papers, who could practically make or break a show after the first presentation.

He stated that Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times held the most powerful position as critic and whose opinion was the most consequential. One of the best known and respected critics is Richard Watts, jr. of the New York Post, according to Garrett, who also named others on the metropolitan papers who had succeeded in panning or praising a play, regardless of author or actors.

He highly recommended "Annie, Get Your Gun," starring Ethel Merman, as a unique and gay musical, in spite of the many caustic remarks made generally about the star. "Very exciting" was the recommendation for "All My Sons," of which he said the characters were easily recognized. "Born Yesterday," starring Paul Douglas, was commended as the best comedy now on Broadway. He also approved of "Burlesque," an old timer reviewed, with Jean Parker, former movie star, and Bert Lahr in the leading roles.

"Call Me Mister," a fast moving hit composed of a cast of ex-USO performers, was also on his "yes" list. Others were "Carousel," "Christopher Blake" and "Lady Windermere's Fan," a vehicle starring Cornelia Otis Skinner. He was high in his praise of Miss Skinner and also of Helen Hayes, who he says is one of the most popular actresses of the legitimate theater. "Although," he stated, "she should try for more suitable roles."

"Harvey," with Frank Fay and Josephine Hull was recommended but according to Garrett, Miss Hull deserves top billing. "Joan of Lorraine," with Ingrid Bergman in the lead was highly commended due to the star's excellent performance. He chose hers as the best current performance in New York.

"John Loves Mary" a good comedy," said Garrett, received a seven to two nod from the eastern critics. "Every one who has not seen "Life With Father," at least three times should be ashamed," asserted Garrett. He also said "Oklahoma" was pleasant entertainment, and one of the finest musical comedies, but that the general public expected too much when they saw it.

Closing his talk he complimented Lynn Fontanne as the loveliest women in the theater and she with her husband, Alfred Lunt, as the best acting team.

This was the final in the series of guest lectures to be given this season for the Federation. Luncheon was served at 12:30 at the Women's Club.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

IT HAPPENED THAT WAY

Yowler the Bobcat was looking down from high in a tree and what he saw made him tingle all over. That tree was near the edge of the "yard" the trodden out place in the deep snow, in which Lightfoot the Deer and his family were living while the snow in the Green Forest was too deep for getting about easily. In deep snow they would be almost helpless to defend themselves from Old Man Coyote or Puma the Cougar or Tufty the Lynx or his cousin, Yowler the Bobcat, should one of these find them. It was to be sure of enough to eat and for safety that they had trodden out that yard.

Never had Yowler been hungrier. Not since the first snow had he had a full meal. Mostly it had been a bite at a time, a Mouse now and a Mouse then. Now he was looking down on nothing less than a feast if he could get it, a feast that would last him for several days. Lying down in that yard were Mrs. Lightfoot, her two fawns, and their older brother and sister, Spike and Dainty Foot. Without their mother the fawns and young Deer would be helpless. For her he had the greatest respect. Those sharp-edged hoofs of hers could cut like knives, and well she knew how to use them. But here she was lying down contentedly chewing her cud. What a chance to leap on her before she even suspected danger! Yowler's eyes glowed with eagerness.

But Yowler made no move. In the top of a tall tree near at hand was Blacky the Crow and well Yowler knew that if Blacky should see him he would at once give the alarm and the chance would be gone. Yowler didn't move until Blacky was out of sight. Then slowly, carefully he began to back down that tree, taking care that his claws made no sound.

But he didn't much more than start. No sir, he didn't much more than start. There was the sound of claws on bark below him. At the same time there was another sound that was half whine, half grunt. He didn't need to look down to know what it meant, but of course look. There, just starting to climb was the last person in the world he wanted to see just there. Had he been in any other tree Yowler wouldn't have cared a twitch of his bob stump of a tail. It was Prickly Porky the Porcupine.

It was only a matter of chance that Prickly Porky had come along just then and had taken it into his funny head to climb that particular tree.

Yowler wanted to snarl an order to him to get down but if he did that Mrs. Lightfoot would surely hear him. So Yowler kept his tongue still. That he was above him Prickly Porky didn't suspect. Had he suspected it he probably would have climbed another tree. He stopped on a crotch made by the trunk and one of the lower boughs. He settled himself comfortably. There could be no passing him, and to leap from above to the ground would be to alarm those Deer. There was nothing for Yowler above him to do but keep still and hope.

The next story: "Yowler Becomes Curious."

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

My Own Improbable Hollywood —In common with quite a few million other Americans, I've been going to the movies (and loving it, I might say) for some years now. I remember how silents found their voice and how cowboy movies changed from quickies to slickies equipped with such high priced adornments as Marlene Dietrich, Gary Cooper and Jennifer Jones. I've seen some amazing changes wrought by Walt Disney and Natalie Kalmus and David O. Selznick, and I expect to see a lot more. But there are some things we'll never see, no matter how experimental or three-dimensional the industry becomes.

They could happen, of course it's just that they never will.

For example, I'm sure I'd keel over with shock if I ever saw Jimmy Stewart, the all-American boy, cast as a slimy foreign agent with villainous tendencies — or Shirley Temple as a sleek seductress . . . The sight of Rita Hayworth in a gown that didn't fit like her skin would knock me for a loop . . . I can't imagine Carmen Miranda without at least one vegetable on her head, or any actress in an Adrian gown that didn't have shoulders out to the-e-e-e-re, or an Alfred Hitchcock movie without a speeding car in it . . . Or Jimmy Cagney in a gentle, modest, law-abiding characterization that didn't require him to paste even one evildoer on the smirking kisser with his high-tension fists.

I wonder, oh how I wonder, if there will some day be a shot of Lewis Stone with his hair ruffled or if Bette Davis ever will manage to stay healthy and happy through one reel, or if some movie with a newspaper locale ever will show a reporter with his hat off and his feet on the floor of the city room. Or if some revolutionary director, some fine day, will dare to allow a female star to go through an entire day on the screen in just one dress.

Also ridiculously improbable is an off-the-set photograph of Bing Crosby in a sober dark business suit, white shirt and neat tie . . . A film in which John Garfield started out in first scene as a rich boy, and stayed that way to the end. . . . A Johnny Weismuller picture without a tree . . . A post-Reno statement by a glamour girl in which she declared, flatly and unequivocally, that she and her ex-husband were the worst of enemies . . . A Sam Goldwyn anecdote that made him sound bright as a button. . . . A girl star whose hair didn't change color at least once in the course of her career . . . A Clark Gable (or, for that matter, Victor Mature) vehicle in which the hero is allowed to keep his shirt on—literally—through the whole picture.

* * *

Nor do I ever expect to ogle a killum fillum in which every sleuth is couth . . . Olivia De Havilland with dry eyes from first reel to last . . . Paul Muni looking like himself, just once . . . Or Eddie Bracken looking as if the world weren't the most bewildering place in the world.

I'd be surprised if the industry let a Western escape if grits and hominy weren't mentioned on somebody's menu. (Those Hollywood boys haven't caught on to the fact that those items no longer are popular in Western cuisine) . . . And I've given up hope of viewing a clean-shaven Clark Gable (is there a law in California that says he MUST have that moustache?) . . . Or William Powell flabbergasted . . . Or Lauren Becall a hairdo that will permit her to see something of this vale of tears . . . Or Humphrey Bogart pausing somewhere in his sinister cinematic travels to pet a dog, a cat—or even a girl.

MRS. RALPH SCHAD JR.

Tips From a Neighbor—No. 3

Shown above is Mrs. Ralph Schad jr., 482 Davey avenue, who can whip up a cake or any baked goods before you can get the words out of your mouth. According to Mrs. Schad her banana cake is "simple but delicious." Maybe she just has the knack, but why don't you try her recipe:

- ½ cup shortening
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 large eggs
- 2 cups sifted flour (all purpose or cake)
- ¼ tsp. double action baking powder
- ¾ tsp. soda
- ½ tsp. salt
- ¼ cup sour milk or buttermilk
- 1 cup mashed bananas
- 1 tsp. vanilla

Cream shortening; add sugar and eggs. Sift dry ingredients together. Add sour milk and flour, alternately. Add bananas, then vanilla. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes. Mrs. Schad suggests whipped cream with bananas or a boiled icing as a finishing touch for a perfect dessert.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, February 15.

ALTHOUGH there is presage of friendly and concerned intervention in affairs generally, from those in place and power, yet the reign of the sensational, irregular and eccentric, with emotions, impulses or curious undercurrents of the strange, illusive and possibly illicit, may enter the affairs with dubious and debatable influence. Weird or abnormal practices or urges might becloud the decisions. It might be well to fall back on spiritual depths.

Those whose birthday it is, while assured of the kindly interest and consideration of influential persons, disposed to assist constructive developments along practical lines, may get little response from such as may be under certain strange, erratic or unaccountable impulse, affecting the deeper or more psychological character foundation. Impulses toward the sensational, illicit or visionary might set aside all aspirations or ideas of the commonplace. Safe and sane programs might avert strange intrigues or regrettable collusions.

A child born on this day may incline to the impractical, unbalanced or erratic, spurning offers of the sympathetic insight of its superiors.

At the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Bee Staunton, plans were made for the committee banquet to be held in May. Winners of games and contests were Mrs. Reinhart, Mrs. Metzger and Mrs. McBride. A feature of the evening was a "crazy auction" sale.

Bemiller, 531 Glenwood boulevard.

FLAT RENT HIKE LOSING SUPPORT

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Proposals for a general across-the-board increase in rent ceilings appeared losing favor today among some influential senate Republicans.

Meanwhile, Sen. Albert Hawks, R., N. J., prepared what some observers believed might form the basis for such a compromise. He planned to submit his proposals today to the senate banking committee now studying rent control extension.

Hawks' plan made two principal recommendations:

1. That congress direct the Office of Temporary Controls, which includes OPA, to set "hardships" case rent ceilings that would provide landlords a "reasonable return." Landlords could appeal to the courts to set aside any unsatisfactory ceiling.

2. That congress permit landlords to evict undesirable tenants under state laws. Rent Administrator Ivan Carson protested earlier this week that any such step might doom federal rent control.

FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

Senator Loses Temper

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Sen. William Langer of N. D., got so mad finally that he couldn't even bang the table. He didn't have enough hands.

He gripped an unlighted cigar in his right fist and a smouldering cigaret in his left. He took alternate puffs on both and eventually ruined the cigar (he banged it involuntarily) in his exasperation with Wendell Berge, the government's official trust-buster.

The plump little pink-faced Berge, solemnest assistant attorney general of them all, appeared before Chairman Langer and his civil service committee to ask for more money to hire more lawyers to prosecute more firms under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. Oh, oh.

The proceedings started peacefully enough, with Berge listing the number of anti-trust cases he's filed the last few years. Langer wondered how many of the guilty big-wigs of business he'd put in jail.

"None," said Berge. "None in the last generation, I guess."

He added that people are peculiar. They don't regard anti-trust violators like they do sneak thieves or embezzlers.

"Now wait a minute, Mr. Berge," roared Langer, exhaling smoke like an irritated dragon. "If a man steals a loaf of bread in Minneapolis you put him in jail. But if a group of men conspire to raise the price of bread, you just slap them on the wrist. The law says they should go to jail."

Berge said there was some discretion allowed there. He said business men usually were prominent people, who lost out socially when indicted under the anti-trust laws.

"Nobody likes to be indicted," Langer shouted. "Why should the little fellow be sent to jail and not the big?"

RELATIONS BETWEEN the senators and the trust-buster, as we say in the government, deteriorated from there on. Sen. Dennis Chavez of N. M. said he didn't see why Berge wanted more lawyers when the ones he has can't get convictions. Sen. Langer said it was obvious Berge was not living up to his oath to enforce the Sherman act.

"But it hasn't been the policy of the department to seek jail sentences," Berge finally cried. He mentioned again the social stigma of the anti-trust indictment.

"I'm wondering if there is any justification for having your department at all under the present management," interjected Sen. Edward J. Thye of N. D.

"And I want to tell you what the common people think of your department of justice," said Sen. Langer. "A farmer up in my state made a miserable little loan with one of your agencies. Then he butchered a couple of his calves because his children were hungry. And what did you do? You sent him to the penitentiary because he destroyed mortgaged property. Yet you, yourself, said you never send to jail these fellows who fleeced the people of billions."

Some more heated conversation about the advisability of putting movie monopolists into cells caused Sen. Thye to observe that anti-trust enforcement was the next thing to a farce.

"The law has been on the books 57 years come next July and they haven't enforced it yet," exploded Sen. Langer, puffing his cigaret and smashing his cigar simultaneously. Berge said he could do better if he had more men. He wants $600,000 more next year than he had this, mostly for lawyer hire.

I wouldn't bet five cents (even if gambling weren't against the law) on his chances.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Book Hits Espionage

JOHN T. FLYNN, a tenacious, factual reporter of the highest type, has written an expose of a group of New York propaganda organizations which go in for politics and private espionage. It is called "the smear terror" and is a truthful antidote to the two books published under the name of John Roy Carlson, "Under Cover" and "The Plotters."

Flynn is 64 years old, gray, vigorous and constantly angry over conditions and activities which offend his sense of truth and justice. He has been a reporter and editor for more than 30 years, some of that time with the "New Republic," and, early in the New Deal, was a counselor to the senate banking committee in Ferdinand Pecora's memorable investigation of the stock exchange, and to Senator Nye's committee which investigated the munitions industry. This background is related by way of disposing of insinuations that he is a tool of reactionary wealth and a "native fascist."

That smear started when he began to oppose Franklin D. Roosevelt on domestic policies which he believed to be fascistic and communistic, and on the trend of the United States toward involvement in the late war. As one who has read much of the smear propaganda against Flynn and other honest men who had the patriotic moral courage to defy the Thought Police during this time, I may say that I have never known of a successful challenge of his statements of fact.

• • •

BY CONTRAST with Avedis Arthur Derounian, the author of "Under Cover" and "The Plotters," who has used a dozen aliases in addition to John Roy Carlson, Flynn is no cops-and-robbers cub. He goes under the name of John T. Flynn, exclusively, and goes where he pleases, and he often work in public libraries and the library of congress, and in bureaus where immigration and naturalization records and vital statistics are stored, to verify information on a group of name-changers and imposters who switch their identities from time to time and make a profession of snooping into the privacy of legitimate American individuals and associations.

The fact is well known now that Carlson was denounced last September by Judge John P. Barnes of the United States District Court in Chicago as a liar, incredible even under oath. The judge was referring to certain charges in "Under Cover." In this book, Carlson disclosed that he himself had published an anti-Jewish paper for the ostensible purpose of ingratiating himself with actual Jew-baiters.

Judge Barnes decided that Carlson's real purpose was to make money. Judge Barnes also thought that E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., the publishers of "Under Cover" and Carlson's later book, "The Plotters," were willing to publish anything to make money.

The extent and the impudence of this smear propaganda are intelligently presented by Flynn and the personalities and methods employed are forcefully revealed for the first time.

WALTER WINCHELL

Little-Known Stories

AMERICANS HAVE read and enjoyed many Lincoln yarns. But here are bits of Lincolniana that aren't familiar to most: He was the target for many vicious journalistic attacks. His reply to such belittlers: "I'm like the traveler on the frontier who was lost in a wild country on a pitch-black night. A terrific storm was raging, yet, though he was buffeted by wind and rain, the glare of the lightning alone showed him the way. After one crashing thunderbolt the traveler dropped to his knees. 'Oh, Lord!' he prayed. 'If it's all the same to You, give us a little more light and a good deal less noise.'"

He once visited a friend in a hospital and noticed he was reading an anti-Lincoln gazette. "If you can read and digest the contents of this newspaper," he quipped, "I think you will surely get well!"

When a reporter informed Lincoln he was assigned to cover a Democratic convention, the president asked him to send several letters about the event. The newspaperman asked what points he should emphasize.

"I want the interesting stories," said Mr. Lincoln. "I mean the stories you would talk about—but wouldn't print!"

• • •

A CABINET MEMBER once asked him why he didn't write an open letter to the public answering Horace Greeley's attacks . . . Lincoln wisely pointed out: Mr. Greeley owns a daily newspaper, a very widely circulated and influential one. I have no newspaper. The Press of the country would print my letter and so would Mr. Greeley's newspaper. But in a little while the public would forget all about it, and then Mr. Greeley would begin to prove from my own letter that he was right, and I, of course, would be helpless to reply."

When he was running for congress, Lincoln asked a constituent if he would vote for him. He was told: "I admire your head, Mr. Lincoln, but damn your heart."

"Mr. Voter," Lincoln countered, "I admire your candor, but damn your manners!"

Lincoln was a devout man. He once explained his faith in religion this way: "When I gaze at the stars I feel that I am looking at the face of God. I can see how it might be possible for a man to look upon the earth and be an atheist, but I cannot conceive how he could look up into the heavens and say there is no God."

He enjoyed preachers who went in for histrionics during their sermons. He said: "I don't like to hear cut-and-dried sermons. When I hear a man preach, I like to see him act as if he were fighting bees."

When a conceited politico passed away, Lincoln was informed that his funeral attracted a large crowd. To which he said: "If that politician had known how big a funeral he would have had—he would have died years ago!"

HUNTED FORGER PASSED STOLEN MASONIC CHECKS

Two of Six Pilfered Blanks Net User $230.

A man described as between 24 and 30 was sought today on forgery charges.

He was accused of having cashed two checks made out on printed blank check forms stolen from the Masonic temple. He narrowly missed arrest when a cafe owner became suspicious.

O. F. Garver, 116 West First street, secretary of Mansfield Chapter 28, R. A. M., said six blank checks carrying the name of the chapter and space for signatures of three officers, were stolen from his office on the second floor of the temple. The checks bore the numbers 151 to 156, inclusive.

Two of the checks were cashed Wednesday night.

* * *

Returned as Forgery.

One was cashed by Frank H. Gilbert, co-owner of the Creamer's Bar and Grill, North Main street. It was for $110. The bank returned it as a forgery.

The other was cashed by Mike Pandoff, proprietor of the Mansfield cafe. It was for $120. While the check has not yet been passed upon by the bank, police expressed belief it, like the other, would be ruled a forgery.

Pandoff informed police that after cashing the check, he became suspicious and followed the man. He picked up the suspect and was taking him to police headquarters when, he said, the man leaped from the Pandoff automobile and fled.

* * *

Used Same Payee's Name.

Both checks were made payable in the same name, which, officers learned, was the name of a well-known Mansfield man twice the age of the suspect.

Police said bank officials told them all three signatures appearing on the stolen Masonic checks had been forged.

Meanwhile, a woman accused of cashing a worthless check for $25 at the Ohio cafe, East Fourth street, was held by police. Sam Siciliano, 275 Lexington avenue, proprietor of the cafe, said he cashed the check, which came back from the bank marked "no account." The woman held was described by police as 28 years old and giving a Ninth avenue address.

MONTGOMERY FIBBED ABOUT HIS AGE TO OBTAIN HIS FIRST JOB IN STEEL

By KEN WOODMAN
(News-Journal Executive Editor)

Although Joseph B. Montgomery jr. once served as a youthful surveyor in Virginia, he does not claim to be another George Washington. He admits he once told a lie.

It all happened when the man who is now president of Empire Steel corporation was about 18. He wanted a job as salesman for the Carnegie Steel corporation and he figured the firm wanted him. They were looking for a native of the area to travel in Virginia and North Carolina. Montgomery was born in Richmond and grew up there.

So he upped his age when he applied for the job. He got the job. And after he had proved he could handle things, Montgomery confessed the fib. The company didn't mind a bit. By that time they knew they had the salesman they wanted.

* * *

THE JOB with Carnegie was not Montgomery's first.

"I went to Richmond academy a prep school," he recalls, "and worked during the summer as a surveyor. After graduation I needed a job. I heard there was one open at the Richmond Structural Steel company for $9 a week. I took it."

Montgomery worked first as a blueprint boy and later as an estimator, figuring the quantities of steel needed for specific jobs.

* * *

WHEN WORLD WAR I came along, Montgomery left Carnegie and joined the army. He served for 18 months and came out a captain of engineers.

The post-war years found him working for United Alloy Steel and the Berger Manufacturing company at Canton. He stayed in Canton 15 years, during the last five of which he was vice president and general manager of the Berger company. He left there to become a special representative for Bethlehem Steel.

* * *

MONTGOMERY came to Mansfield in 1937 as vice-president of Empire Steel corporation. Five years ago he was made executive vice president and since then has been successively elevated to president and chairman of the board of directors.

"I like the steel business," Montgomery says. "I have worked hard at it but I never find it drudgery. My greatest satisfaction is in getting a job done."

MONTGOMERY HAS no hobbies, although he and Mrs. Montgomery recently took over a 90-year-old farmhouse near Mifflin and renovated it for a summer place.

"We can see Charles Mill lake in the distance," Montgomery says. "I like the out-of-doors and some day we may go there to live."

Now the Montgomerys live at 695 Andover road.

The Empire Steel president can count his affiliations on the fingers of one hand. They are Country club, Chamber of Commerce, and Grace Episcopal church, in Mansfield; the Union club, in Cleveland; and the American Iron and Steel institute.

Although still young in appearance, Montgomery is three times a grandfather. A daughter, Mrs. Hubert Merryweather who lives on a ranch near Nogales, Ariz., has two daughters. And a son, J. B. Montgomery III, now attending Yale, has a new baby boy—"J. B., the fourth."

The son's education was interrupted during the war when he enlisted in the navy and flew a B-25 in the South Pacific.

Doll Parade Scheduled at City Library

Dolls will go on parade tomorrow morning at the Public library in one of the few doll contests ever staged in Mansfield.

Combined with the contest will be the regular Story Hour session in the second-floor children's room. Both contest and story hour will be held at 10 a. m., with the winners of the contest announced following the story session.

All kinds of dolls are eligible for the contest, Miss Eva Leonard, children's librarian, emphasized. Ribbons for each type of doll, whether rag or china, will be awarded at the decision of the judges. Miss Leonard said that growing interest in the competition required expansion of the contest to include more awards for every kind of doll.

Judges will be Miss Ruth Culbertson, Mrs. L. H. Fink, and Miss Portia Schiller.

OUTLOOK LEAGUE TO MEET IN CITY

John O. Holly of Cleveland, founder and president of the Future Outlook league, will be one of the speakers when league members hold a state conference here Sunday at the CIO hall.

Atty. Jean Murrell Capers of Mansfield will give the principal address. The conference will open with registration at 10:30 a. m.. A review of the four years of the league's activities in Mansfield will be given by Rev. A. J. Payne, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist church.

County Vets' Group Votes To Back July 4 Homecoming

Richland county's Joint Veterans' Housing committee last night voted to push plans for a county-wide veterans' homecoming celebration which has been tentatively scheduled for next July 4 and 5.

The meeting was held at Post 72, American Legion, headquarters with the Richland Detachment, Marine Corps league, as host.

Charles Prosser, chairman of the Veterans' Homecoming committee, was instructed to proceed with plans for the homecoming and to choose another smaller committee to present completed plans before city and county groups for further action.

These instructions came after delegates from the veterans' organizations had voted five to three in favor of supporting the homecoming project. Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, American Veterans' committee, and Posts No. 16 and 72 American Legion favored the homecoming.

In opposing the homecoming project "D" Battery and the 37th Division associations pointed out that they could not see why veterans should have to sponsor their own homecoming celebration. It should be done by others, they said.

Robert E. Rogers, Amvet commander, in explaining his post's opposition to the homecoming, pointed out that it was not the principle of the celebration that was opposed but that Amvets felt the commission was not using its facilities as planned.

"The commission as we understand it," he said, "was not set up to be a flag-waving organization or a social group. There are far more serious problems for it to tackle. It can tackle the big desires of all the veterans-desires for security, a roof over their heads, and good jobs. I think I speak for many vets when I say that they desire these things more than a pat on the back," he concluded.

Commission President M. A. Fulkerson replied that the commission could handle only the problems which were brought before it by the delegates of the various veterans' organizations which comprise it.

Walter E. Rusk, VFW delegate, pointed out that the commission, because of its youth, was moving slowly and cautiously so as to gain the confidence of the veterans' organizations.

A proposal that the commission go on record as favoring the passage of the Ohio Shelter Tax law by the state legislature was defeated on the basis that not enough information was at hand to allow delegates to vote intelligently on the motion.

The commission named a committee to meet with county commissioners in an attempt to get more county housing units for colored veterans.

Spokesmen for American Legion Post 72 had complained that their members haven't been getting a fair share of the housing units.

Attending last night's meeting were delegates from VFW, DAV, AVC, Amvets, "D" Battery association and Posts Nos. 16 and 72 American Legion.

The next meeting is scheduled for Feb. 27, at 8 p. m. at the DAV club rooms with Battery "D" association as host.

HE GOT OUT—

A locked door caused Keith Barber, Mansfield VA official, to resort to acrobatic tricks last night. He was forced to work his way down the rail of two flights of stairs leading to the second floor offices of the VA in the new Kroger building on Park avenue west. Someone locked the back door and the front steps were freshly poured concrete and wouldn't stand his weight. Clinging to the rail and forcing his feet into the partitions between the posts, Barber gingerly worked his way to the ground floor.

IDEAL SCHEDULE—

Paul Rottman, retired Millersburg druggist, has taken over the operation of Paul Shumaker's drug store, while Paul and Mrs. Shumaker are on a month's auto trip to Mexico City. Rottman has found there are complications—not in operating the store but in attempting also to keep up with the hobby of fancy sheep breeding which he took up after his retirement. The Shumakers' trip and lambing time coincided. But so far everything has worked out all right. The lambs have conveniently arrived on Sunday when Rottman does not have to be at the store.

Rottman, incidentally, is an old acquaintance of three Mansfield physicians: Dr. R. C. Wise, Dr. Wallace Buker, and Dr. Earl Mast. He reports that Dr. Wise gave him his first ride in an automobile, a four-cylinder "open job," which Dr. Wise owned when he was starting practice in Millersburg before he came to Mansfield.

16 VET UNITS ASSIGNED BY COMMISSIONERS

Group Named to Investigate Allocating of County's Emergency Apartments.

Representatives of the Mo Call Coach company of Springfield today were scheduled to begin placing the county's GI trailer homes on sites provided by the veterans.

The county commissioners' office reported that 16 of the 20 mobile homes have already been leased and that employes of the Mo Call company, firm which sold the trailers to the county, were to assist veterans who are ready to have their trailers placed.

Meanwhile, the Richland County Joint Veterans commission last night appointed a three-man committee to meet with the commissioners on the problem of allocating some of the trailers to colored veterans of Mansfield.

The colored veterans had been hoping some of the units would be distributed to them and several months ago, when the commissioners were thinking of using prefabricated homes in their housing program, asked that some of the units be allotted to them.

* * *

Early Ones Served First.

However, commissioners decided in mid-January that they would switch to the use of trailers in order to eliminate the delays and higher costs of using prefabs and last week began the task of assigning the trailers on a "first come, first served" basis.

"None of the colored veterans has been in the office for months. We waited and waited but they didn't apply for any of the trailers so we began assigning them," C. L. Shoup, chairman of the commissioners, said.

Dr. N. C. McNeil, commander of the colored American Legion post, which tried to get allotments of the prefabs several months ago, said today he knew of no colored veterans who had applied for a trailer and been refused.

Silas Robinson, past commander of the post, likewise said he thought representatives of his post had made no recent request to the commissioners for homes.

Shoup said today that the commissioners may be able later to allot four trailers to the colored veterans—"either the four which have not been leased yet or four new ones which we hope to buy with the balance of money in the housing fund."

Named to the Joint Veterans commission committee which is to confer with the commissioners were Charles Swain of the AVC, Samuel Davis of the colored post, American Legion, and David Bud of McVey post, American Legion.

Also on the program are the Eddie Skulski orchestra, piano selections by Philip Stirtzinger, Jr., and Miss Virginia Miller; violin solo by Joseph Pival jr., accompanied by Mrs. Margaret Hall, students of the Ethyl Battin dancing academy, and Frank Miller's accordion band.

The Skulski orchestra will open the program, followed by the selections, "America, the Beautiful" and "Serenade" by Toselli sung by the mixed chorus. TIGERS BOAST 5 LETTERMEN ON VARSITY SQUAD

Mansfield Senior high Tyger basketballers make their final regular season road appearance tonight when they travel to Massillon to meet the potent Washington high school team.

Massillon has hit the top brackets of state high school play in some instances this year and has looked rather ordinary in others. The Tigers have won eight of 13 games with a lineup featuring the work of five lettermen.

Scale Pinnacle.

The Washington high lads scaled the pinnacle three weeks ago when they smashed Canton McKinley's victory string, 38 to 33. McKinley is regarded as Ohio's best scholastic aggregation and plays Mansfield Senior high here next Friday night.

Three of the Massillon regulars started against Mansfield last year and another—Bob Link—saw action in a relief role, Dick Gardner, Tony Uliveto and Bill Wiener accounted for 18 Massillon points as the Senior high lads rapped the Tigers, 58 to 47, last year. Gardner, who goes around six-foot, is Massillon's leading point maker.

Fifth starter is Earl Johnson, tall center, who won a letter in 1945-46 but did not play in last year's contest.

Bud Houghton has two lads that approach 6-2 as replacements. They are Bill Oliver and Stan Kutz.

Massillon Wins.

Massillon has defeated Canton Timken, 41 to 34; Akron Central, 44 to 37; Alliance, 52 to 36; Akron South, 67 to 61; New Philadelphia, 54 to 31; Akron St. Vincent, 73 to 51; McKinley and Canton Lincoln, 50 to 43.

The Tigers lost to Canton McKinley, 50 to 58; Canton Lehman, 44 to 47; East Liverpool, 38 to 50; Akron North, 51 to 65 and Alliance, 43 to 45.

Coaches Vern Hoffman and Fred Staub will take 18 players to Massillon for the varsity and reserve contests. Hoffman will string along with his regular starting lineup tonight. That means Ollie Cline, Nick Gagich, Chuck Sisco, Tommy Bloor and Ralph Majors will be in there.

Mansfield Madison concludes its home schedule tomorrow night when they collide with the strong Ashland A's at 7:15. Madison and Ashland have compiled the best Class A records in the area but the A's rate as heavy favorites.

Ashland has played tougher competition. The A's have won 12 of 14 games while Madison has copped 11 and lost two. Ashland entertains Marion Harding tonight.

State Expects To Buy Coach This Evening

COLUMBUS—(INS)—'Tis an important day on the Ohio State university campus, for today the institution's football fathers are expected to buy themselves a coach.

The university athletic board meets at 6 p. m. today to pick a successor to Paul Bixler, who resigned a week ago to become coach at Colgate university.

It was deemed as inevitable as the traditional death and taxes that the successor will be Wesley Eugene Fesler, former Ohio State All-American and more lately a journeyman mentor at an assortment of colleges.

Fesler, who leaves Pitt after one season, was rumored to be in line for a $15,000 salary and a possible five-year contract.

Report Says Hank May Wind Up With New York Yankees

NEW YORK —(AP)— Hank Greenberg, who only last Sunday announced he was "considering" retirement from baseball, may yet be an active player this season—with the New York Yankees.

This was learned today from a reliable source, who claimed he "knew" that President Larry MacPhail of the Yankees had sounded out Frank McKinney, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, via telephone to ask if Greenberg was for sale.

The informant said MacPhail offered the Pirates more money than they paid to the Detroit club for Greenberg's release. Neither MacPhail nor McKinney could be reached immediately for comment.

Although Greenberg would be the last to say so, it is no secret that the Major leagues' home run king would jump at the chance to play in his home town New York. He made it rather plain that he would welcome the opportunity to perform with a team of his own choosing when he said the other day, "I feel there is yet much good baseball in me as a player and executive."

The big fellow is reluctant to play with the Pirates who paid $40,000 to the Tigers for him after the star slugger was waived out of the American league.

Frank Truly Wins Knockout

3 MANSFIELD BATTLERS WIN AMATEUR GOES

Mansfield boxers had a rough time on last night's Friendly House-40 et 8 amateur fisticuff show with only three local youngsters coming out on the long end of the decisions.

Frank Truly, who looks like the best thing to come out of the F-H this season, sparkled with a first round kayo of Bill Burns, Akron. Burns, a clever counter puncher, was going great guns until he ran into one of Truly's left jabs and curtains in 1:42. It was Frank's second straight win.

Lofton Fuque, 137, and Bill Eberhardt, 124, were the other Mansfielders to come out on top. Fuque bounced Jack Elliott, Buckeye State AC lightweight, off the canvas three times before winning by TKO in 1:18 of the second round. Eberhardt decisioned Dale Lama, Marion.

Battle Royal Tops.

Art Miller's losing five-round battle with Dewit Carter, 160-pound Akron lad, topped the card on paper but most of the excitement was generated by seven willing kids in a classic battle royal. The youngsters brought down the house for the second time with their flashy ring antics and will be in a featured spot in the next simon pure fights on March 6.

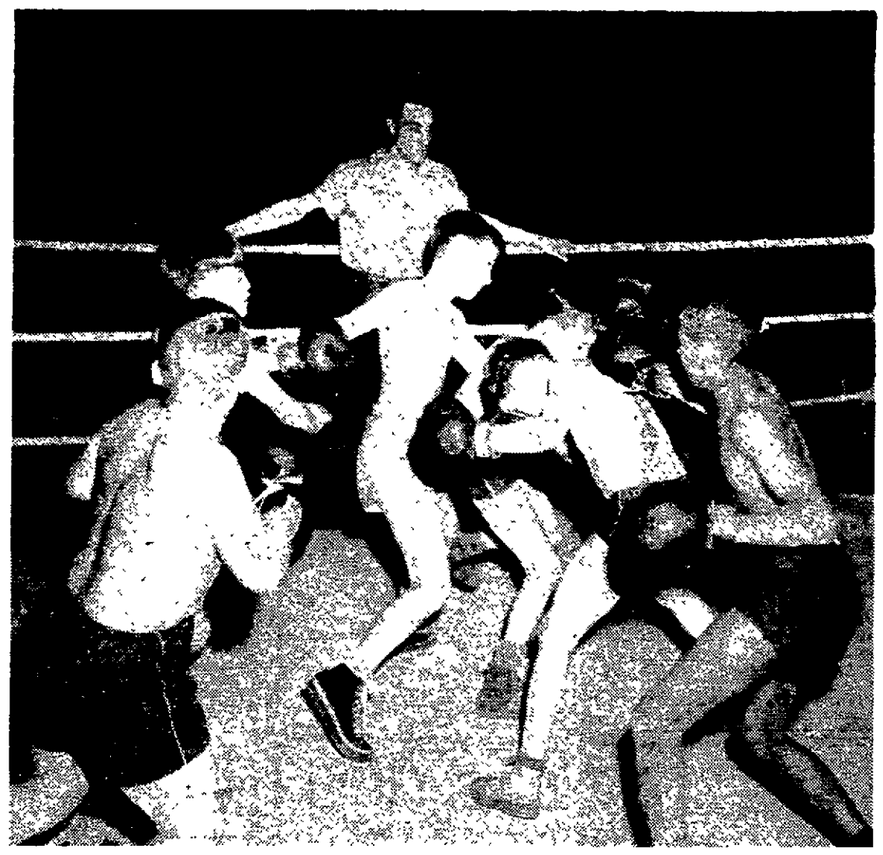
Battling the two rounds, one with paper sacks over their heads, were: Tommy Eberhardt, Billy Harrington, Bob Pittinger, Delano Wright, Bob Metz, Emet Robertson and Delbert Wright.

Miller lacked his usual verve and fell easy prey to Carter's potent in-fighting. Carter appeared in place of Arnold Tucker, who was sidetracked with an injured arm.

In other bouts, Jack Seckinger, Marion, won a return bout from Eddie Knapp, F-H featherweight: Al Stein, Akron middle, stopped Walter Lumpkins, F-H, in 35 seconds of the second round, and Jack Draper, Marion welter, topped Russ Cleek, Akron, in three rounds.

Tom Weaver's bout with Olliss Levelle, Marion light-heavy, was postponed. Weaver is suffering from a streptococci throat infection.

Two Friendly House youngsters —Ulysses Gallaway and Tom Pandoff—met in an exhibition which opened the show.



WATCH THOSE FISTS—Friendly House youngsters gang up on each other in the thrilling battle royal on last night's amateur fight card at the Mansfield Senior high auditorium. The seven lads threw a lot of leather to bring down the house.—(News-Journal photo by Bill Graham)
